

JOHNSON WARNS INDUSTRY IT FACES RECOVERY CRISIS

Says Purchasing Power Must Be Brought to Parity With Rising Prices in 30 to 60 Days.

FINDS "APPALLING" ADVANCE IN CLOTHING

Quotations Jumped 60 to 130 Per Cent—Must Put People to Work Now at Living Wage.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 20.—A warning to all industries that a crisis is faced within the next 30 to 60 days in bringing the country's purchasing power to a parity with rising prices, was issued today by Hugh S. Johnson, industrial recovery administrator, as he opened public hearings on the code proposed for the women's coat and suit industry.

"We have had a rapid increase in prices throughout industry," Johnson noted emphatically. "We recognize that costs are going to increase and prices will have to follow."

"Every time in the past there has been a rapid increase in prices there has been a lag in wages. But now the distortion of increased prices is so rapid and the lag of purchasing power so great that it is plain we can't stage industrial recovery with 12,000,000 men out of work."

He urged the women's coat and suit manufacturers and the representatives of labor in that industry to thresh out the prospective points in the proposed agreement to shorten hours and raise wages by working on two main principles, for stabilization and protection of the industry itself and for benefiting the workers therein.

"There is no escape," Johnson told the clothiers that industry had to face a broad front to put people back to work "not six months from now, but right now," at wages that permit them to live.

"If we don't," he said, "there will be the buyers' inability to buy the products of industry. There is no escape. I have no doubt the situation is being realized in industry and that it is going to be solved."

He said he had advanced the wholesale quotations for retail restocking which showed increases of from 60 to 130 per cent. Calling this "appalling," he added, "this shows what we are up against in a little while and it is in your hands to meet the situation."

Says "This Law Works." Making the rounds of hearings on proposals for specific codes to increase wages and restrict working time, Johnson told the crowded meetings that they are "emerging from the depths, but not from the dangers" of depression. "We have a right to be encouraged about this law; it works," Johnson said. "As I see it, there are now two main problems—some device to bring in the unorganized classes and the question of prices going too far ahead of consuming power. The operation of this law has been an inspiring thing."

"Roosevelt's Own Concept." In a speech to businessmen on the recovery act, Johnson said: "This thing is peculiarly Franklin D. Roosevelt's own concept. I don't mean in detail, but his mind doesn't work that way. But there is a lot of talk about his trust—the people he uses to get facts from. I let me tell you that this is his own particular property."

Johnson explained it was the President's own idea to get industry acting collectively and to lift buying power so that it would not lag behind prices.

"Many people say, 'Oh, well, he just delegates this power,'" he went ahead. "I say to you the President is sitting up on this thing; he is giving his personal, individual attention and when decisions are made, the President is going to make those decisions."

Johnson today perfected for presentation to President Roosevelt the complete program for his nationwide "code" push.

The plan involves voluntary agreements by all factories, stores, of talk about such as laundries and filling stations, and business houses, with organization in every community to persuade employers into signing.

Only approval by President Roosevelt awaits promulgation of the drastic proposition, and Johnson today perfected for presentation to President Roosevelt the complete program for his nationwide "code" push.

Post's Probable Route to Alaska

It is at Anadir, on the Gulf of Anadir, that Jimmie Mattern, another solo round-the-world flyer, who crashed his plane, is awaiting transportation to Alaska.

son was ready to seek that before the day is out. The plan would be voluntary, with reliance on pressure of public opinion to get industrial and business concerns into line.

Deputy Administrator A. W. Allen, who conducted yesterday's long session on an electrical code, said today he was informed the manufacturers were making good progress and he was hopeful that by Friday no issues would remain to be threshed out.

Underwear manufacturers were seeking to agree among themselves on a permanent code and on coming immediately under the terms of the cotton textile agreement, to which rayon, silk and cotton thread already have subscribed.

Hearings on the lumber industry code began with notice of impending objections to price-fixing. Dudley Cates, assistant administrator for industry, expressed gratification that agreement was in prospect for preservation and conservation of forest resources. C. Arthur Bruce of Memphis, acting executive officer of the lumber authority, took charge of the presentation of arguments for the code.

In Clash With Admirals. Admiral E. S. Land's support of the 40-hour week provision in the shipbuilding code led to an American Federation of Labor protest at the White House today. John Frey of the labor organization demanded of Admiral Land the authority for his testimony yesterday. He asserted he had taken the matter up with Louis Howe, a secretary to the President. "I am going further with it," Frey said, as spectators eyed him.

Frey accused Land and the navy of favoring the shipbuilders' code almost in its entirety, and declared: "When any member of the Government takes part in a matter like this, except to supply requested information, he is going far beyond his authority."

Land told Frey he appeared at yesterday's hearing by direction of Secretary Swannick and that a part of his statement had been supplied by the Secretary. Admiral Land had testified a working week below 40 hours in shipyards would greatly increase shipbuilding costs and seriously delay deliveries.

Garment Makers' Demands. The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has submitted a plea for a 30-hour maximum week for all except office and shipping department employees, and prohibition of overtime and child labor. The American Clothing and Suit Manufacturers' Association code called for a 34 a week minimum wage for non-manufacturing jobs; employees and $1.75 cents and 45 cents per hour, respectively, for cutters, sample makers and examiners. Craft employees would be paid on a piece basis ranging from 45 cents to $1 an hour. The union proposal provides weekly wages for manufacturing employees ranging from $26 to $55.

Both would work toward establishment of an unemployment insurance fund, but the union proposal provided for immediate assistance of 5 per cent of the total payroll.

Arizona Virtually Sure for Repeal; Drys Won't Be on Ballot.

PHOENIX, Ariz., July 20.—When Arizona votes, Aug. 8, on repeal of the eighteenth amendment, the count will be a mere formality, for the ballot will carry only the names of delegates pledged for repeal. The drys failed to get enough signatures on their petitions to entitle them to a place on the ballot.

Officials said the drys could write in names but that since only 14 delegates are to be chosen, election of anyone whose name was not on the ballot was extremely unlikely.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 20.—Latest tabulation of the Alabama vote Tuesday on repeal of the eighteenth amendment gives: 92,443 for repeal; 61,201 against.

TWO AMERICANS GIVE BAIL, 3 STILL IN SPANISH JAIL

Friends of Those Detained Trying to Raise Bond — U. S. Ambassador Gets Action.

By the Associated Press. PALMA, Mallorca, July 20.—Five American prisoners held here without bail for a month and a half because they allegedly attacked a civil guard, were granted bail today and were ordered released.

Manuel Azana, Premier and War Minister of Spain, cabled the military authorities here ordering the immediate release of the Americans. He took this action after a conference with the United States Ambassador, Claude G. Bowers in Madrid.

It was learned that following his conversation with the Premier, Bowers immediately visited Foreign Minister de los Rios in the capital.

Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood of Springfield, Mass., and Rutherford Fullerton of Columbus, O., two of the five Americans held, were still held in default of bail while their friends hurried around trying to raise the necessary amount.

The judge took the passports of Fullerton and Mrs. Lockwood when they posted the required bond and advised them that they would remain under police surveillance and must report to his court every day, pending disposal of the case.

Mrs. Lockwood was said to be in poor health because of her six weeks' imprisonment. No formal charges have been filed.

Theodor Pratt, an American writer, meanwhile, is reported to be in seclusion at the home of a friend here while authorities considered the advisability of prosecuting him for his article, allegedly derogatory, about Mallorca.

It was reported that Pratt will encounter difficulty in leaving the island because no legal charge has been filed against him. His article aroused resentment in certain quarters.

He said today praised the civil governors for giving him the protection of a civil guard escort when he came to Palma from the other side of the island.

Speedy and Fair Trial Promised Only Nominal Bail.

MADRID, July 20.—Nominal bail compared to that usually demanded for the same category of prisoners was arranged today in the case of the five Americans imprisoned in Mallorca on charges of assaulting a civil guard. The offense is military because a guard in uniform was killed.

G. Bowers arranged for the release of the prisoners at interviews today with Manuel Azana, Premier and War Minister, and Foreign Minister de los Rios. They agreed amicably to his explanations, and promised speedy and fair trial, it was learned.

The bail in the case, it was said, would amount to release of the prisoners virtually on their own recognizance, probably with only minor guarantees.

After his visit to Senor Azana, Bowers called on the Foreign Minister, thanking him for his interest. The Foreign Minister expressed happiness "that the unpleasant incident is clearing up."

Premier Azana expressed regret at the unfortunate publicity resulting from what appeared to be a Spanish at first as a simple military court matter.

ROCK ISLAND SAID TO FAVOR MERGER WITH THE FRISCO

I. C. C. Gets Testimony That Reorganization Managers of Chicago Line Want to Work Out a Plan.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 20.—Hearings on the proposed financial reorganization of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway have been postponed until September when the Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to take additional evidence.

Meanwhile, it is possible that some alternative plan, one that will more nearly meet the wishes of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and other objecting debtors of the company, will be proposed.

J. M. Kurn, receiver for the road, which is now in the hands of the United States District Court at St. Louis under the new bankruptcy act, testified yesterday the road was in good shape and could handle 20 per cent more traffic with its present equipment.

C. M. Clay, an attorney for the Reconstruction Corporation, outlining its objections to the plan under which the reorganization committee had hoped to bridge the next five or 10 years financially, asserted that the needs of the situation were not met.

"The plan," he said, "leaves a large floating debt unprovided for; it leaves the capital structure of the road ultimately much as it was prior to reorganization; it is not sufficiently demonstrated that the earning power of the road will permanently support the structure proposed."

"Further," he said, "it leaves a large floating debt unprovided for; it leaves the capital structure of the road ultimately much as it was prior to reorganization; it is not sufficiently demonstrated that the earning power of the road will permanently support the structure proposed."

Clay said the readjustment managers of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co., which is in bankruptcy, have suggested to the corporation that they would like to prepare a plan for reorganization which would include consolidation of the Rock Island and the Frisco.

He said he also was informed that the chairman of the Frisco Board of Directors proposed to take up the matter with his board and with the readjustment managers of the Frisco.

"This possibility," he added, "might well be further explored, more particularly in view of the fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission has announced as a part of its consolidation plan the union of these roads."

Cried in a screeching shout, Miss Grace Mastelloni dove into the bay and swam to the barge carrying dignitaries to greet Balbo. She took hold of the prow, waved and cried: "Viva Italia! Avante Balbo!"

Balbo smiled and saluted. Balbo watched admiringly while the dirigible Macon put on a little show for him, releasing its planes from its silver hull to dive in salute.

As the aviator and his crew drove away in automobiles, the crowd fought to get near them, while men of Italian blood pumped the applause with the Fascist revival of ancient Rome's greeting: "Eia, Eia, Eia, Alala!"

Throng of women pressed around a hotel where Balbo's flyers went to dine and rest while Balbo and his senior officers were entertained at the Columbia Yacht Club by Rear Admiral Yates Stirling and other officials. Girls burst from the crowd and kissed the youths.

One lone flyer, however, was not to be kissed. A stout girl, modestly dressed, slipped up behind him and threw her arms around him. Whirling, he pushed her away and held her at arm's length until he was assured that she would desert.

3 SENTENCED IN IOWA FOR ABDUCTING JUDGE

Two in Hiding 11 Weeks Sur-render, Third Man, 75, Convicted by Jury.

By the Associated Press. LE MAR, Ia., July 20.—Prosecution of farmers participating in the abduction from his courtroom and threat to lynch Judge C. C. Bradley, April 27, concluded yesterday with guilty pleas from two ring leaders and a jury conviction of a third.

Ending 11 weeks hiding, Maurice Cope, 27 years old, and Ed Casper, 33, surrendered to authorities and were sentenced by Judge Earl Peters on charges of hindering the administration of justice and assault to do great bodily harm. Cope was ordered to serve one year in jail and received a suspended sentence of one year. Casper got a one-year suspended prison term and six months in jail sentence.

Shortly after their pleas were heard, a district court jury at Orange City convicted A. A. Mitchell, 75-year-old farmer, of assault and battery charges in connection with the abduction of the judge. Judge Peters, who also presided at his trial, will sentence him July 27.

"Evidence which I have heard against you convinces me that you were one of the leaders of the mob that abducted Judge Bradley," Judge Peters said. "In view of that evidence I feel that you should bear the heaviest sentence of any of the farmers who participated in that attack."

Judge Bradley as a State witness at Mitchell's trial had identified Cope as one of his abductors. Cope had been a member of the crowd which fought with sheriff's deputies at Primghar in an attempt to stop a foreclosure sale there before coming to LeMar the day of Judge Bradley's seizure, witnesses said.

In the fight at Primghar he received a battered head. A bandage was placed on his forehead, and he was taken to a hospital where he was treated for his wounds. He was released after a few days and returned to his home.

The disturbances in which the three participated resulted in the calling of National Guardsmen to the territory and the arrest of many farmers. The others were all sentenced some weeks ago by Judge Peters. He said to newspaper men later, "The President agrees with me."

Farley, who is chairman of the Democratic National Committee, returned to Washington after a tour through the Southern states in which he participated in the campaign for repeal.

He went immediately to the White House to report on the prospects for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Kaiser Thinks He Was Put
There for Easy Place to Hide Body if He Died.

The place where they kept August Luer is what I'd call a burial vault," said Chief of Police Gerk
to reporters at Police Headquarters
this morning upon returning from an inspection of the Illinois farm where the Alton banker was held by kidnapers for five days.

"I can't find language to describe the place," the Chief went on. "It must have taken the most inhuman cruelty that ever lived to put a man being in a place like that.
I wouldn't put a dog there."

The Chief added: "You would have to know what you were looking for to be able to find the location." He was accompanied on his visit by Chief of Detectives Kaiser, Detective-Sergeant Leonard Murphy
and Federal agents.

Chief of Detectives Kaiser said examination of the hole, the cave led him to believe it had been dug out about three years ago.
He added: "I can't conceive why
they put that old man in the hole
instead of the shed, unless for this reason: Had he died, all they would have had to do would have been to fill in the hole. Then nobody on earth would ever have found his grave."

Describes Cave on Farm.
Chief Gerk's description of the cave and other comment on its use
by the kidnapers, follows:
The farmhouse, or shack, is in great disrepair. It consists of one room, about 20x30 feet. There is a little porch, about 3x4 feet.
It has a little canopy or roof and
the floor is fastened together with pegs on the four corners, to keep it from shifting from side to side.

"You lift the floor up, which lets you into an aperture where there is a crudely constructed ladder going down. The ladder leads to a hole dug in the ground five or six feet long, and three or four feet wide and several feet high. There were 4x4-inch supports which board walls were nailed,
making a box, or fruit crate, as they called it."

"You lie in the hole in comfort and you can't sit in it because of the position there all the time. We found in the house the pillow they let him rest his head on."

Wants Luer to See Place.
"It would be impossible for a man of Luer's age and physical condition to go down the ladder unassisted.
It is straight up and down,
so it must have been necessary for him to be handed down from somebody above to somebody below.
That's what he meant, evidently,
when he said he was let down a
'load chute.'"

He have been told they left him alone there in the daytime and at night they went down there and at on him—and I mean they sat
on him. Why? God only knows.
It's the most inhuman and atrocious thing I ever heard of. How man can be so inhuman to man is beyond belief. You've got to see it to really understand it. I don't know a man in Luer's physical condition survived. When he recovers efficiently I am going to ask him
to accompany me to this place, so he can see for himself where he was kept."

Tells of Beating at Trial of Woman as Poisoner
SALEM, Mass., July 20.—Attorneys defending 32-year-old Jessie
B. Costello, mother of three children, who is charged with poisoning her husband, gained from near-
all of the State's long successful record of witnesses in Superior Court today the admission that, as they knew, she was kind to her children, a good housewife and devoted to "Bill." Two witnesses testified that they knew she killed her husband, William J. Costello, at the station house, almost every noon time.
Rather than Simbolet, maid at the Costello home, told of being ordered to clean brass with a powerful cleaning fluid, which the State confirms is the poison that killed Costello, Feb. 17. She testified Mrs.
Costello went upstairs to get money
to buy candy from a peddler and came hurrying down again, saying Costello was dead.

James D. O'Neil of Peabody testified that Mrs. Costello had told him that she had been seeing strangely for some time prior to her death. O'Neil said she told him at one time "Bill" beat her black and blue marks were
on her body.

Five Held as Luer's Kidnapers; Sixth Sought

Where Luer Was Held Captive for Five Days

ABOVE: The entrance to the pit through which the cave where August Luer was imprisoned for five days is entered. When found today the pit was partly filled with clay above a trap door. Over the clay had been placed a crudely constructed movable porch. Below: General view of farm home of Michael Musiala near Madison. The cave is beneath the shed at the extreme right.

Louis. They surrounded the place
at dawn, closed in on the house and arrested the Musialas to complete the morning's work.

Mr. and Mrs. Luer, escorted by Chief of Police Hart of Alton, visited the Musiala place shortly after noon today. After inspecting the cellar under the shed Luer unqualifiedly identified it as the place
where he had been held prisoner.
The Luers then came here with Chief Hart to Police Headquarters,
where both viewed the prisoners
already under arrest in the case.

Luer was unable to identify any of the kidnaping prisoners, viewed in the "show-up room" at headquarters. Mrs. Luer repeated her identification of Fitzgerald, and said that Norma Vaughn strongly resembled the woman kidnaper. She said a flowered dress found in Miss Vaughn's room this morning
was identical with the dress worn by the woman abductor.

No Ransom Paid.

With the cleanup of the case Department of Justice agents announced that they had verified that not a cent of ransom had been paid
for Luer's release from the kidnapers, who it appeared, despaired of establishing a contact with the family for collection of the $100,000
they had demanded, and who also feared that Luer, a sufferer from a severe heart ailment, might die
if the negotiations were prolonged any further. Luer was released early Sunday morning on a lonely road west of Collinsville, a few miles from the place of his captivity.

The Post-Dispatch learned today,
however, that the kidnapers made demands for $15,000 after they released the Alton banker. Their communications were with Luer's son-in-law, Adolph Peterson, whose planning mill is at 2800 Lyon street, St. Louis. The kidnapers' related demands were disregarded.

How Police Solved Case.

Working largely in the dark, Department of Justice agents got their first toehold in the case last week when, with Luer still in captivity, Mrs. Luer picked Fitzgerald's photograph from a group of about 25 police photos of criminals,
as one of the kidnapers. Fitzgerald, she said, was the man who knocked her down twice while his companions, a man and a woman,
were hustling Luer out of the house.

Swiftly the police posted watches
on every one of Fitzgerald's haunts,
most of them in the gambling
houses and dives of the East Side.
He was at none of them. But when he turned up at one of them
Monday night, less than 36 hours
after the release of Luer, the police arrested him and concluded that they had their hands on one of the kidnapers.

Their conclusion was justified
when Fitzgerald, after many hours
of questioning, finally broke down and confessed his complicity and gave the police certain other information, the extent of which they are not yet ready to disclose.

Norvell Arrested at Home.

The first step in the investigation after Fitzgerald made his confession was the arrest, early today of Norvell, who is surety on bonds of $5000 given by Fitzgerald and Frank Douglas, a pal of Fitzgerald, on a burglary charge at Edwardsville, Douglas had been sent for questioning in the kidnaping
was dropped out of the case today and lodged in City Jail here on a warrant charging holdup of a watchman and robbery of a safe
at Moultrie Temple, for which he had been sought.

Norvell was taken in custody at 2 a. m. at his home at 633 Waterman avenue in Nameoki on definite information in the hands of the investigators that he was with the kidnapers in the vicinity of the Luer home when the abduction was carried out. This information, police said, came directly from Fitzgerald.

Norvell made no statement to the investigators. He was quickly locked up at Police Headquarters.
The raiders took charge of a .45
caliber automatic pistol and a .32

caliber revolver found in his house
and posted a guard over two Dodge sedans found in his garage. Persons who saw the kidnapers' car back out of the Luer residence had described it as a Dodge. It is understood fingerprint experts will look over the Dodges today to determine whether or not there is any evidence Luer has been in them.

Woman Under Arrest.

After the arrest of Norvell, the raiding party went to a flat at 92A St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, and there arrested Norma Vaughn.
After Miss Vaughn had been sent on to headquarters, the raiding party went out to the Musiala farm, arriving there just after daylight.
The hideout is on a small farm,
1.7 miles north of the junction of Illinois Highway No. 11 (U. S. 40) with the optional combination Illinois highways 3 and 4.

The junction of the two roads is northeast of the Ninth street subway in East St. Louis. The hideout itself is to the east of Highway 3-4 in the prairie farming district northeast of East St. Louis and two miles south of the business district of Madison.

While some of the police were digging their way into the kidnapers' cellar, partially filled with dirt
since the release of Luer, others searched the Musiala house, about 25 feet from the outbuilding under which Luer was held prisoner.

On the premises, they reported,
they found a sack filled with straw
and feathers, similar to the one Luer said was tossed to him to lay his head on when he slept on the earthen floor of the cellar where he was held. They also found a leather automobile cushion like the one which Luer was told to sit on when he wrote two notes to his family in response to their demand that the kidnapers furnish definite proof
that he was still alive.

Fifteen men comprised the raiding party, including six Department of Justice agents and nine St. Louis detectives. The St. Louis men, in addition to Detective Sergeant Murphy, in charge of the police squad, were Detective Sergeants
James Mitchell, Kenneth McGuire
and Thomas Hunt, and Detectives
Albert Deist, Martin Cliffe, Albert
Benn, Charles Gerlach and Thomas Hale. All had worked on the case more than 50 hours without sleep.

KIDNAPERS' CELLAR
OLD LIQUOR CACHE

The cellar in which August Luer was held captive for 23 hours is an old liquor cache, 14-year-old Joe Musiala told a reporter for the Post-Dispatch.

"It was there when we moved sobbing about "40 or 50 men" who had taken his father and mother away a short time earlier, "but I didn't think anything about it. I didn't know what it was and I didn't ask."

When police and Federal agents arrived at the Musiala home this morning, they found no sign of two cups or coffee until Tom Ha-sky, East St. Louis detective, discovered that in a platform porch
to the tool shed, there were new wood screws. He moved the platform, discovered fresh clay beneath it and began to dig. After some time he reached a trap door, removed it, and there was the entrance.

The pit entrance to the cellar is about two feet square and four feet deep. There was a home-made wooden ladder with four rungs in it, and, at the bottom, a tunnel two feet square that after about three feet in length widened out into the cellar proper, which is 3½ feet high,
3 feet wide and 7 feet long.

There was nothing inside the cellar to indicate it had been occupied recently. No crates, none of the bread that Luer there was reported because he couldn't eat it, no bits
of the fruit fed to him occasionally. Apparently the kidnapers had cleaned out the interior and sealed
the entrance with clay.

Fourteen-year-old Joe, who is a student at the Harris school in Madison, said the police who took away his parents, also took his sister, Rosie, 10 years old, and his brother, John, 2.

When reporters arrived, Joe was there alone, seated at a table
where his parents had been breakfasting when they were arrested.
Two cups of coffee, cold, were on the table and Joe had his head on his arms, crying. Near him were two iron double beds, with disarranged bedding, and a wooden crib in which John slept. The place had been searched by police and everything was in disarray.

The house, which is about 40 by 18 feet, has only one room, and is about 30 feet southeast of the tool shed, beneath which Luer was held captive.

In the house were several chairs
and tables, three wooden wardrobes, filled with worn clothing, a small old table-top phonograph, and
on the walls were cheap lithographed holy pictures and amateurish drawings of motion picture
stars. There were several cheap, worn linoleum rugs on the floor.

Department of Justice Statement on Luer Case.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Department of Justice today issued a statement telling of the arrests
developments in the Luer kidnap-ing, on which the Federal Government had centered its efforts
under the new Federal laws against kidnaping and use of the mails to extort money. In part,
the statement follows:

"Considerable investigative activity was necessary last night and early this morning to bring this case to a prompt solution, and rendering assistance to the bureau
agents were the St. Louis and East St. Louis Police Departments."
"Chief of Police Joseph A. Gerk
of St. Louis and Chief of Detectives Robert Kaiser extended every cooperation and were of great assistance to the Government in this case."

FAMINE, FLOODS AID PLAGUES HIT TWO-THIRDS OF CHINA

NANKING, China, July 20.—Officials of the Nanking Government
today estimated that the famine,
floods, heat, cholera, rats, locusts
and other natural forces now afflicting China affected 12 of the 18 provinces of China proper. The area affected has a population of 100,000,000 persons.

In addition to the many natural catastrophes, the officials said,
bandits and Communists were harassing the people, causing destruction of life and property.

"I saw that dirt," said Joe, still crying.

RECORDS OF MEN HELD IN LUER KIDNAPING

Norvell Former Partner in Mounds Club—O'Malley—Dangerous Criminal.

Randall Eugene Norvell, the professional bandman, said by police to have driven the kidnapers' automobile in the Luer abduction, is a former partner in the Mounds Country Club, Madison County
gambling casino operated by Harry Murdoch.

Norvell, who is held at Police Headquarters, has also been active with Murdoch in real estate promotions in Granite City. In November, 1929, the Federal Government
filed liens for failure to pay income tax against him, Murdoch, former Sheriff Deimling of Madison County, and seven others, including the partner in the Mounds Club. The liens totaled $180,000.

Norvell was an assistant to Murdock in the management of the club on Collinsville road when it opened, but later it was reported that he had disposed of his interest in the establishment.

Known as Dangerous Man.

"Iris" O'Malley, ex-convict sought as the only participant in the kidnaping still at liberty, has been known to the police for more than 10 years as a dangerous criminal and formed associate of James Traynor, notorious Granite City
summan and safecracker now serving a life term in Chester penitentiary for murder.

O'Malley's correct name is Walter Holland, but he has not used the latter name for years. He is an orphan, the police are informed, and was reared by a St. Louis man named O'Malley, whose name he adopted for his own use, although he took no formal steps to make the name legally his.

As Walter O'Malley he entered the army, shortly before the World War, but deserted from Fort Silo, Ok., while awaiting trial on an assault charge there. He next joined the Canadian army, and after being discharged returned to St.
Louis, where he took up with Traynor.

On June 21, 1921, he was arrested in a house in the 4100 block of Lafayette avenue with Traynor and Clem Forestal, another notorious hoodlum. Firearms and burglars' tools were seized in the raid. Subsequently all three were identified as the robbers who stole $17,000 from an American Express Co. driver in a holdup in Granite City. O'Malley convicted, was sent to Chester penitentiary in May, 1922, to serve an indeterminate sentence of from one to 20 years.

Paroled in 1929.

In November, 1929, he was paroled to George H. Hanlon, proprietor of a pool hall at Sixteenth
and Madison streets, Granite City.
Prior to his arrest for the American Express robbery, O'Malley was arrested in October, 1921, with Traynor in their stolen automobile.
They were charged with violation of the Dyer Act in a Federal warrant, but subsequently the charge was dropped. Eight months before that, in 1921, O'Malley was identified as one of several men who held up a driver and took
from him a load of liquor in St.
Louis, but the case never was brought to trial.

O'Malley is 35 years old. Police records describe him as being 5 feet 8½ inches tall and weighing 145 pounds. His general build is described as "medium slender, his eyes green-yellow, hair dark chestnut, complexion sallow. His fingerprints are on file at Police Headquarters.

INVESTIGATORS FIND FAIR BREAD PRICES

Increases Average Less Than Cent for a One-Pound Loaf.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 20.—Farm
Administrators reported today that
"most bakers appear to be maintaining fair price schedules after an investigation of bread prices in 32 cities which showed increases averaging slightly less than 1 cent per pound loaf on July 12 compared with June 15.

Bakers in cities where investigations were conducted were reported by administrators to have "in most cases kept within what Secretary of Agriculture Walling has indicated would be a justifiable price advance."

"After ordering the processing tax
of 30 cents a bushel on wheat in effect on July 9, he said it did not justify an increase in more than 1½ cent a loaf and that the rise in prices of wheat and other ingredients of bread did not justify what the tax an increase of from more than 14 cents to 21½ cents a loaf.

The investigation was by representatives of the department, who visited 12 stores in each of the 32
cities and obtained prices on bread.
Both chain and independent retail establishments were covered.

Analysis of the records showed that retailers in one city added less than 1 cent a pound to their June prices; those in 12 cities added 3 cent per pound; in eight cities the advance was from 1½ to 14 cents
and in six others it was 2 cents.
Bread prices in five cities had not changed.

Dr. Frederic C. Howe, consumers'
counsel in the farm organization,
said that the investigation was the first of a series of periodic checks
"planned to help protect consumers" and that "the department was watching for evidence of unfair
price advances and would forward complaints to the Department of Justice."

kidnaping gave the police their first definite start toward clearing up the case, is 39 years old and describes himself as a paperhanger
by trade.

In the 21 years police have known him he has been arrested here 40 times. He served 32 months of a three-to-five-year term in Tennessee for burglary, beginning in 1924, and later served a six-month workhouse sentence here on a petty larceny charge scaled down
from a felony charge of possession of burglars' tools. He is a frequent of East Side gambling houses, where he is known as "The Dice Box Kid."

2 OLD FASHIONED Bargain Days!—FRIDAY and SATURDAY

July 21st and 22nd

Stix, Baer & Fuller's twice a year clearings are a tradition in St. Louis. For over 40 years women have known exactly what to do when we announced these semi-annual events. Thrifty ladies of the old school knew well how to make their dollars do double duty. Silks by the bolt, linens by the case, willow plumes and bustles, too, made their way from our shelves to their closets. The Two Old-Fashioned Bargain Days replace the One-Day Sale Before Stock-Taking (the semi-annual clearing of years ago)—two days instead of one to reveal in the bargains not to be equalled at any other time or in any other place.

In this Two Old-Fashioned Bargain Day Sale, the merchandise is modern, desirable and up to date. Only the bargains are old-fashioned and many specially purchased groups amplify the offerings reduced from our own stocks.

- 2 Odds and ends, broken assortments in every department in the store are reduced to prices that make values that are little short of sensational.
- 3 New groups, collected here and there for many months, conform to Stix, Baer & Fuller's standards of quality just as rigidly as the features regrouped and reduced from our own stocks.

JOB PLAN ANNOUNCED FOR PUBLIC PROJECTS

Work to Be Given to Those Now Idle—Migration Costs to Be Minimized.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The Administration has announced its emergency set-up for placing thousands of unemployed on jobs to be created under the Industrial Recovery Act.

Secretary of Labor Perkins, in making public the names of re-employment directors in each State, said the entire organization was at work and that W. Frank Parsons, director of the United States Employment Service, would supervise the new arrangement.

The service, an emergency organization, will operate for five months. Some of the directors are volunteer workers.

In announcing the re-employment set-up, Miss Perkins made public the policy that will govern the emergency organization. It included the following provisions:

"Opportunity for employment on projects authorized under its administration shall be equitably distributed among qualified workers who are unemployed—not among those who merely wish to change one good job for another."

"These work opportunities shall be distributed, geographically, as widely and as equitably as may be practicable."

"Qualified workers who, under the law, are entitled to preference shall secure such treatment."

"The wasteful costs and personal disappointments, due to excessive migration of labor in quest of work to the vicinities of projects should be avoided."

"Local labor required for such projects and appropriately to be secured through employment services, should, as far as possible, be selected from lists of qualified workers submitted by local employment agencies designated by the United States Employment Service."

"Miss Perkins added to this that 'it is the clear understanding of the Department of Labor that highly skilled and organized labor is not to be required to register for work at re-employment offices but will be recruited in the customary ways.'"

The list of state directors and their headquarters include: Missouri, Martin A. Lewis, Jefferson City; Illinois, Roy Jacobson, Chicago City Club, Chicago.

Build Roads!

PORTLAND CEMENT

Has pulled America out of the mud!

THAT GIVE MEN WORK • THAT GIVE YOU DRIVING SAFETY, CONVENIENCE COMFORT AND LOW DRIVING COST

The United States Government has sounded the call, by giving a direct grant to the States, of at least four hundred million dollars for highway improvement. This is part of a vast program of public works to spread national employment and to stimulate business.

This work will be done through your own State Highway Department. The Federal Government asks no return except that the money be expended wisely—that the improvements be permanent, substantially built and of a type that gives men work.

CONCRETE ROADS meet every specification. They are permanent. Maintenance cost is much less than that of any other type. They give you the greatest driving safety, convenience and comfort. They cost less to drive over—saving you gas, tires, repairs and depreciation. They will give work to men now on doles in your community. Money will flow across the counters of home stores.

Insist on CONCRETE for your roads—get the most and the best road for the money—and the maximum employment for labor!

Remember the roads of 1910? Narrow strips of dirt—ankle-deep dust—quagmires of mud—The cost of moving goods was terrific!

The engineers have built, with cement, a network of CONCRETE highways throughout the nation that is nearly one hundred thousand miles in length. Cement spanned great rivers and broad valleys with concrete. Cement made the modern motor vehicle practical; made motor-ing a part of our daily life.

HOW WELCH'S
MAKES CHILDREN
RED-BLOODED

For many years physicians have recognized the value of Welch's
 Certified-Pure Pasteurized Grape Juice as an aid to quick recovery
 from wasting illness.

Now a noted food authority has shown that the simple grape sugar
 in Welch's is predigested—is taken up by the blood, immediately and changed to quick new energy without loss of appetite.

More than that, he has shown that Welch's actually contains more protein (body-building material)
 than mother's milk... more Vitamin B than orange juice... that it also contains iron, calcium, phosphates and magnesium, so necessary for growing children.

Best of all, the children love it!
 It will take it in abundance, though they turn away from less appetizing foods. In countless homes Welch's is helping anemic, run-down children build muscle and bone, gain rosy cheeks and buoyant energy.

If your children just pick at their food and are getting thin and weak
 before your very eyes—don't wait!
 Buy a bottle of Welch's today—and start them with it before breakfast, then once or twice during the day, and again before retiring. Continue—and in a very short time you will see wonderful results.

In the meantime send for booklet,
 "Red-Blooded Children," which you may obtain ABSOLUTELY FREE,
 simply by writing to The Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 443, Westfield, N. Y. A booklet every mother should read.

IMPORTANT: Be sure to insist on Welch's, because it is the Welch Process that retains
 in the bottled juice the healthful properties
 of ripe grapes so essential to the system.
 Only Welch's is Certified-Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no
 preservatives, and is free from sugar and tartaric acid. It is selling at the lowest price in 35 years, and is even cheaper by the case. Send for free booklet TODAY.

LIGHT LAGER BEER

Welcome home to Griesedieck Bros.' famous St. Louis light lager beer! Always the prime favorite of St. Louis families, this smooth and satisfying bottled beer with all of its old-time distinctive taste and genuine beer flavor is available once more.

Such a delicious brew could never have been achieved under hurried or rushed conditions. To some brewers in Griesedieck Bros. position the beer situation during the past few months would have been an irresistible temptation. It would have been easy to speed up production and rush beer to the waiting market. Griesedieck Bros. brewery took no such action. The men responsible for maintaining the well-earned reputation of this fine beer considered it far more important that every bottle shipped—even the first case—should meet Griesedieck Bros.' traditional standards of excellence.

LOOK FOR THE BLUE AND GOLD LABEL

Calmly and deliberately, master brewers went about their task of recreating the individual flavor and smoothness of Griesedieck Bros. St. Louis light lager beer. They were told that nature should be allowed to take its course—that the brewing process should not be forced or artificially hastened in any way. Now that the beer has matured and mellowed to perfection it is ready for distribution.

The way to judge a beer is not to read about it, but to drink it—nothing else really counts but how you like it. We invite you to be critical when you sip your first glass of Griesedieck Bros. St. Louis light lager beer. As you taste the rich, full bodied golden lager and see its creamy, pearl-like foam, many of you will recognize an old friend—others drinking it for the first time will say "this is going to be my brand."

VINES PLAYS AUSTIN IN FIRST DAVIS CUP MATCH TOMORROW

ALLISON PAIRED WITH PERRY FOR SECOND BATTLE; U. S. IS FAVORITE

President Sends Good Luck Message To American Team

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PARIS, July 20.—President Franklin D. Roosevelt cabled a "good luck" message today to the United States Davis Cup team, which meets England in the interzone final tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.

The cable, sent to Bernon S. Prentice, the team's non-playing captain, read as follows: "Good luck, Davis Cup team. Franklin D. Roosevelt."

PARIS, July 20.—Ellsworth Vines, United States champion, will play H. W. (Bunny) Austin, England's No. 2 player, in the opening match of the Davis Cup final at Roland Garros Stadium, tomorrow, according to the draw made here today.

Wilmor Allison, the United States second singles player, will be pitted against Fred Perry, England's ace, in the second match.

On Saturday, the American doubles team of George Lott and John Van Ryn will probably oppose Perry and George Hughes, the English combination, which last week won over Australia. The remaining low singles will be played Sunday, with Allison meeting Austin and Vines battling Perry.

The winner of the match will play France in the challenge round, starting July 28.

U. S. Team Is Favored.
 Kept up to the highest pitch, the strongly favored United States team and England's best tennis players today made their final preparations for the matches. Their efforts today were directed mostly toward holding the fine "edge" of their form with the British, perhaps, expending a little extra energy, hoping that Perry's injured shoulder will stand up. Perry appeared to have no trouble yesterday with the shoulder, hurt in last week's duel with Australia, and said he was confident it would stand the strain.

The other British stars, Austin, Harold G. N. Lee and Hughes, were in good condition, while Vines, young No. 1 man on the American squad, appeared in superb form. Allison, Van Ryn and Lott, the other active members of the United States squad, were not far behind him on condition, although Allison did not take part in the final stiff workout.

Want Borotra for Singles.
 The interest of Parisian tennis followers, however, was centered more on the possibility of persuading Jean Borotra to play singles in next week's challenge round. They just about conceded the victory in the interzone final to the United States, making the Americans 7-5 favorites in what little betting went on and figuring that England only had an outside chance of victory if the British could win one of tomorrow's singles matches.

Borotra stuck to his guns about his intention of playing only in the doubles, saying "My decision is absolutely final. I will not play in the singles."

But the French, remembering last year's change of heart when he was persuaded at the last minute to play in the singles and defeated the Americans almost single-handedly by beating both Vines and Allison, hoped for another such decision.

Suzanne Picks Americans.
 "Everybody believes the Americans will win except the players themselves. But—how can they lose?"

That was the way Suzanne Lenglen, former French tennis ace and six-time Wimbledon women's champion, today, summed up the chances of the American Davis Cup team.

Bernon S. Prentice, American non-playing captain, who concedes his squad a "fifteen chance," is still modest. He said:

"Ellsworth Vines, our No. 1 man, is at a slight disadvantage on any but a grass court. Otherwise the team is in the best shape. The boys are not tired and they're keen mentally and physically. There won't be any allis in this match. We are wary of the British, and if we do win it will be by the closest shave."

Rene Lacoste, captain of the French outfit, said: "There's no doubt in our minds—we're sure the Americans will win from the British. After that—who knows?"

Britain's Hopes in Cup Series

WRAV'S COLUMN

be, will be able to pull a Hercules and clean up the situation.

Not So Roly.

THE only comforting thought for the man who takes up the Sportsman's Park burden is that not much will be expected of him.

Mr. Ball probably will not agree with this. In fact, the Browns' owner believes that Killefer did not squander the last drop of efficiency out of his players. He thinks he has the makings of a great baseball club and therefore he will expect his next leader to prove it.

He really has some good players—Jack Burns, Oscar Melillo, Sam West, Hadley and Blalock are good enough for a championship club. Levey and Schardin are good defensive stars. Campbell is promising. Others get by.

The team to most headline observers, seems unlikely to go anywhere as it is, and it will be interesting to see what that last-ditch fighter Phil Ball is going to do about it. Not even Hercules could manage the outfit as it stands into a one, two, three, fourth, fifth year or next.

Baseball men have agreed, from the beginning of the current season, that the Browns have a good framework but lack punch and wit. Killefer turns up with a 350 hitter and a 20-game pitcher, we predict that the old boy at last will find a job that he can't do.

Saving Bill's Face.

KILLEFER is in St. Louis today and will gather up his belongings preparatory to permanent departure.

Killefer made a host of friends here—and deserved them. He is still in good standing personally with the club and the fans. It is probable that Killefer's announced resignation was just a nice gesture by Mr. Ball to save Bill embarrassment.

There was no doubt as to the club's intention to release Killefer, but it is probable that it might have been deferred until the team's return home, but for the explosion in New York.

As it is, Killefer's contract will be paid in full, which would not have happened had he really resigned.

Long Time Between Cups.

THE British Isles are all wrought up over the prospect of regaining the Davis Cup, which they have not held for 20 years.

In fact, only twice in two decades has a British team reached the challenge round. The first time was in 1919, the first year after the Armistice was signed. That year the United States did not enter a team because it had not suffered the war losses which weakened other countries for Davis Cup competition.

It was not until 12 years later that Great Britain's second chance in 20 years developed, thanks to the play of the very men who will represent the British Isles against the United States, tomorrow—Perry, Austin and Hughes.

U. S. Stronger, Today.

THIS time the players will take the courts against a much stronger American team, for Shields and Wood in 1931 were not in a class in singles with the Vines and Allison of today. The Americans really feel as though the interzone cup final

SEEDED PLAYERS ELIMINATED IN UNIVERSITY CITY TENNIS TOURNAMENT

By Davison Ohear.

McNeill Smith, East St. Louis player, upset the dope in the University City open tennis championship by defeating Joyce Portnoy, sixth seeded player, in a spectacular third round match at Lewis Park yesterday afternoon, 6-3, 8-6, 7-5.

Smith, who was not seeded in the singles draw, opened the match with some excellent net play. His backhand shots were also effective. Portnoy looked steadiness in this set.

In the second set, Portnoy dropped the first two games, but put on a spurt which gave him three straight games. The former Washington U. star rushed into the net more frequently and also drove the ball deeper. Smith elected to play more in the back court and was not as steady as in the opener and Portnoy won, 6-3.

The third and final set was close all the way. Neither player had more than a one-game lead after the score reached 2-1. After the games reached 5-4, Smith took his service and broke through Portnoy's to win.

Another seeded player fell by the wayside when Vernon Tietjen lost to Alfred Rothchild, former District junior star. The match was decided in straight sets, Rothchild winning, 6-2, 6-4. The result was somewhat expected as Rothchild had previously eliminated Edmund Serrano, former city champion.

Rothchild will oppose Ward Parker in a fourth round singles match this afternoon. Karl Hodge will play Charles W. Barnes Jr. in a third round encounter postponed yesterday. Oscar Reid and Robert Herford will meet Herbert Weinstein and Charles McMillin in a doubles match.

Ted Drewes notified the committee that he would be unable to play in the singles draw. He is in the singles. Drewes and Serrano also defaulted in the doubles.

Yesterday's Results.

SINGLES.
 Second round—Robert Smith won by default from Ted Drewes.
 Third round—Ward Parker defeated Oscar Reid, 6-2, 6-4; Alfred Rothchild defeated Vernon Tietjen, 6-2, 6-4; Herbert Weinstein defeated Wayne Smith, 6-3, 6-5; Charles McMillin defeated Meyer Fankewer, 6-4, 6-3; McNeill Smith defeated Joyce Portnoy, 6-3, 2-6, 7-5.

DOUBLES.
 Second round—Rothchild and Serrano won by default from Drewes and Weinstein; Parker and Weinstein won by default from Reid and Smith; Barnes and Fankewer defeated Murphy and Senkowsky, 6-3, 6-0.

Great Britain Had Its Day.

DAVIS CUP history began in 1900 through the foresight of that distinguished St. Louisan, Dwight Davis, then a student at Harvard University. American players took the trophy during the first two years of competition, with Great Britain the only competitor.

In 1903, 1904, 1905 and 1906, England had its Davis Cup heyday. Reginald and Hugh Doherty alone won the trophy for America the first two years. Then Sidney Smith joined the team as a singles player, while the Dohertys did their stuff in singles.

As the Davis cup situation now stands, America leads with 10 victories Australia and France are tied for second with six victories each. The British Isles team has won five times.

Only two other countries attained the challenge round. Japan was one of them. That happened in 1921, when Big Bill and Little Bill, the famous Tilden and Johnston combination, swept over Shunmu and Kumagata, winning all five matches. Belgium was the other country to reach the challenge round. Great Britain won that year in five straight sets.

FROEBEL VOLLEYBALL TEAM WINS FROM MERAMEC, 15-8, 15-14
 The Froebel women's volleyball team won two games from the Meramec team on the Fremont School courts last night and entered the play-off for the Play-down volleyball championship. The scores were 15 to 8 and 15 to 14.

SPORT SALAD

The Passing Show.

ILL KILLEFER has quit the Browns; He's sick of being held for down; And Sotheron will succeed him, The unexpired term to fill, And so we'll say good-bye to Bill, And may good fortune speed him.

So to a layman it would seem, The running of a tail-end team Is not a bed of clover, As Allan has no place to go, He'll simply have to stay below, Until the storm blows over.

I see the Southern State that stood On "24 for Underwood" Declared for dry secession; While Arkansas, we also note, For dry repeal has cast her vote, And joined the wet procession.

What Ho, the Wassail!
 At the present rate of progress, it looks as though the 21st amendment will be out of the trenches by Christmas.

Changing riders in the middle of a stream doesn't mean anything to a horse that is hopelessly sunk.

Not being able to get on top themselves, the Browns take great pleasure in knocking off the leaders.

The barber and beauty shops have adopted a code. They will cut anything but the pines.

Nice Day!
 "Hatfield Defends St. Louis Weather." A place in the sun! The St. Louis weather is second to none!

Our smoke may be nothing for Chambers of Commerce to rave over, but our weather is not of the "uncertain" brand. When it's hot it's hot and when it's cold it's cold.

Uncle Sam gives kidnappers 5 years while some of the states provide a 20-foot stretch, with nothing off for good behavior.

Allan Sotheron, manager pro tem of the Browns, will be remembered as the gent who won a crucial game against the Pirates in 1928 and practically clinched the pennant for the Cardinals.

Bill Killefer was coaching at the time. And Rogers Hornsby, who was manager, is now spoken of in connection with the management of the Browns. The lives of these gents seem to be strangely entwined.

It was worth the price of admission to see Rogers Hornsby slide in ahead of Chuck Klein's throw to the plate in Tuesday's game. Old Wax Taper could have done no more.

In case you don't remember Wax Taper he was the most famous cripple of his time. He won most of his races on one leg.

See where Gen. Italo Balbo has added another feather to his cap. He was made chief of the Sioux tribe at the World's Fair.

Wonder if the munitions manufacturers have submitted their code of arms to the Government at Washington.

JOE HUFF SIGNS FOR EIGHT-ROUND BOUT ON JACK TIPPETT'S CARD
 Matchmaker Jack C. Tippett last night signed Joe Huff, South Side welterweight, as a contestant in one of the three eight-round supporting bouts to the main 10-round bout between Davey Abad of Panama and Lou Terry, the South Sider, on Wednesday night's boxing card at the Battery A.

Terry, after holding Jackie Pilkington to a draw Monday night in Louisville, returned last night and agreed to the battle being fought over the 10-round route.

Huff is looking forward to a tough fight, as Tippett has informed his manager, Elmer Koehler, that he is going to sign a hard puncher for Joe.

After whipping Nick Broglio three times, outpointing Billy Hogan twice, drawing and winning over Frankie Hughes and defeating Joe Red in bouts this year, Huff is qualified to oppose a batter of some ability.

Metcalfe, 1932 Olympic sprinter and amateur outdoor champion, set his own pace in the 100-meter dash and won in 10.4 seconds, with Berger of Holland second. Morris neigolized the 110-meter high hurdles in 14.7 seconds despite the handicap of a soft track and had an easy victory over Albrektson of Norway and Petterson of Sweden.

Fugus also won almost as he pleased, taking the 400 meters in 48.5 seconds, finishing more than a second ahead of Klenysky of Czechoslovakia, who was second.

Henri Laborde, weight man from Stanford University, was the only American who met defeat. He could not get the 16-pound shot out more than 44 feet 9-16 inches and finished in seventh place in competition with some of Europe's greatest weight men. A. Hejlaas of Holland won the event with a toss of 49 feet 11-16 inches.

U. S. ATHLETES CAPTURE FOUR OF FIVE EVENTS IN MEET ABROAD

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, July 20.—Led by Glenn Cunningham, the brilliant American "miller" from Kansas, the touring all-star track and field team from the United States took the lead in its first international track meet yesterday by winning four of the first five events.

Cunningham failed by only three-tenths of a second to equal the world's record for 1000 meters as he ran that distance for the first time in his career. The Kansas ace, following the pace set by Erik Ny of Sweden most of the way, finished with a burst of speed that sent him past the tape in 2 minutes 23.8 seconds. The world's record is 2:23.6, held by Jules Ladoumègue of France.

Ralph Metcalfe, Negro sprinter from Marquette University; Johnny Morris, the Louisiana hurdler; and Ivan Fugus, Indiana middle distance runner, scored the other American victories before a crowd of 14,000 that packed the old Olympic Stadium to see the visitors compete against picked athletes representing 11 nations.

Metcalfe, 1932 Olympic sprinter and amateur outdoor champion, set his own pace in the 100-meter dash and won in 10.4 seconds, with Berger of Holland second. Morris neigolized the 110-meter high hurdles in 14.7 seconds despite the handicap of a soft track and had an easy victory over Albrektson of Norway and Petterson of Sweden.

MIDNIGHT GOLD HUNT BROKEN UP BY POLICE

Diggers Heading Prediction of Medium They Would Find $68,000 Under House.

Promptly at the mystic hour of midnight a 65-year-old Negro began digging in the basement of 3010 Thomas street, the home of Mrs. Ouida Banks, for $68,000 in gold a medium had assured him would be found nine feet below the floor. The house was empty, as Mrs. Banks, whom the Negro had told of his plan, had not taken him seriously.

Not only had the medium assured him that gold would be found, but a white friend with spiritualistic inclinations had accompanied him to the scene with his "gold-finding machine." Clad in a black robe and hood, his friend had gone about the dimly lighted cellar, murmuring incantations and holding the "gold-finding machine" in various positions until the crystals suspended from the wand had tinkled in unison, indicating that the gold was to be found beneath the spot over which the wand was then held.

The medium had warned that interruption of the digging would mean bad luck, so the Negro bent to his task with a will, and when police arrived at 1 a. m. today, he had excavated a pit six feet deep and four feet square.

"Doggone!" he exclaimed, "just three feet more to go!" But the interruption had broken the charm,

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH MISSOURI CAMPAIGN FOR REPEAL ACTIVE

COLLINSVILLE DEMOCRAT SAYS HE WILL NOT PAY SALES TAX

Senator James O. Monroe to Make Court Test of Law; Beer Ruling to Be Ignored.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 20.—His promise to furnish a court test of the constitutionality of the 2 percent sales tax law was repeated today by Senator James O. Monroe, Collinsville Democrat.

Unless other action is taken, Monroe said he would refuse to pay his July tax when it becomes due Aug. 15, thus making himself subject to prosecution under the revenue law and permitting an attack on the law when brought to trial. State officials attributed little significance to the State beer law ruling of County Judge George T. Laddell of Rockford in holding invalid a county order that beer retailers in rural districts must close their shops at midnight. He also ruled that the State law cannot be applied to the counties the right to define criminal offenses.

Information here is that the Rockford case will not be appealed and hence will not have any effect upon other provisions of the State malt beverage act.

Three Killed in Explosion. BELOEIL, Quebec, July 20.—Three men were killed in an explosion which wrecked the nitroglycerin plant of Canadian Industries, Ltd., here yesterday.

J. W. Byrnes Says Move to Rescind State Bone Dry Act Will Follow.

The Missouri Association Against Prohibition, oldest anti-prohibition organization in the State, is carrying on its 13-year campaign against the eighteenth amendment independent of the United Repeal Council which likewise is urging voters to cast their ballots Aug. 10 for the delegation favoring adoption of the twenty-first (repeal) amendment.

James W. Byrnes, president of the association, said 500,000 sample ballots showing how to vote for repeal would be distributed through the organization's membership of 54,114, representing, he said, every precinct in the State. Large posters in color also are being prepared for display in business houses and hotels.

The association expected to ask Gov. Park to call an extra session of the Legislature to repeal the McCawley bone dry act, Byrnes said, declaring it a probability that the twenty-first amendment would be ratified in the required 36 states by or soon after the first of the year. The Missouri Legislature will not meet in regular session again until January, 1935.

"When we started our organization," Byrnes said, "opposition to prohibition was not respectable. We are glad to see the change in popular opinion and welcome the efforts of other organizations which are assisting in accomplishment of our objective. We are trying to build up a vote of five to one for repeal for the effect that would have in bringing about prompt repeal of the McCawley bone dry act."

ARMENIAN MOTHER ADMITTED

Quota Filled, President Let Her Enter Because of Services of Children.

By the Associated Press. SEATTLE, Wash., July 20.—Mrs. Sophia Tashjian, 76 years old, who was permitted to enter the United States from Armenia in 1922 through special presidential dispensation because of the "services" her seven children had given to this country, died yesterday at the home of a son, Dr. Souran Tashjian.

The widow of the Rev. Hagop Tashjian, a Congregational minister at Smyrna, Turkey, she was brought to this country as a "guest" of President Harding, because the Armenian quota had been filled at that time. All of her children had been sent to the United States to be educated and settled here.

THURSDAY, JULY 20, 1933 SAYS AKRON RUBBER PLANTS USE 'MAN-KILLING SPEED-UP'

President of Eagles Files Charges in Confidence With City Council Sews Shop Committee.

AKRON, O., July 20.—Secret files charging that Akron rubber factories were working under a "man-killing speed-up" system were before City Council today.

Henry J. Berodin, grand president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, submitted the report to a committee investigating alleged sweatshop conditions with the request that the data be held in confidence. The data was much the same as Berodin cited in his recent appeal to President Roosevelt and Hugh S. Johnson. He said secrecy was necessary because he did not wish to "jeopardize the jobs of those who have given the information."

CONFLICT BETWEEN RECOVERY ACT AND MISSOURI LAW PUT UP TO COURT

Dierks Lumber Co. Now Operating Under Stayed
Order for Fixing
Prices Asks for Ruling
On What to Do.

MODIFICATION OF DECREE SOUGHT

Code Under Federal Measure,
It Is Asserted, Would Compel Violation of Decision of State Supreme Judges.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—A bill just introduced in the Missouri Supreme Court on the conflict between the Missouri anti-trust laws and the National Industrial Recovery Act, which suspends any parts of the Federal anti-trust laws that would prohibit
the combinations required by the act,
has been filed in the court by the Dierks Lumber & Coal Co. of Kansas City.

The company asks the Supreme Court to modify its decree in an anti-trust case in 1914, in which a predecessor of the Dierks company
and 24 other lumber companies were convicted of combinations and agreements in violation of the State anti-trust laws, and to permit the Dierks company to virtually do those same things over again by subscribing to the code to be enacted in the lumber industry under the Industrial Recovery Act.

Attorney-General McKittick
is preparing an answer to the petition, which was filed yesterday at Jefferson.

In the 1914 case, the Dierks Lumber & Coal Co. then organized under the laws of Nebraska, together
with other companies, was convicted of entering into a combination to control the production of yellow pine and its prices in Missouri. The companies were fined and ordered ousted from the state,
the ouster being stayed on certain conditions. The companies were members of the Yellow Pine Manufacturers' Association. The Dierks company paid a fine of $5000. In 1926 the business of the Dierks company was taken over by the present company of the same name, organized under the laws of Delaware.

The court decree stayed the ouster barred the companies from entering into any agreements relating to the production or prices
of lumber, prohibited them from forming associations with such purposes, and required them to abstain from any practices or acts prohibited by the state anti-trust law.

In the petition just filed with the court, the Dierks company states
the Industrial Recovery Act prohibits any agreements relating to the production or prices of lumber
and requires members of industries to participate. It was stated the national act would require the company to do "that which under normal conditions in the past has been done by both the Federal and state law." To enable the company to enter into a lumber code,
now pending before administrators
of the Industrial Recovery Act for approval, it would be necessary to receive the Supreme Court permission, it was stated.

It was urged that if the purposes of the Industrial Recovery Act were to be attained, the state anti-trust law, prohibiting acts required by the recovery measure, obviously must be suspended during the period the Industrial Recovery Act is in force.

A copy of the proposed lumber
code in which the Dierks company
desires to participate, was attached to the petition. The code contains agreements designed to regulate lumber production and prices. The Supreme Court was asked to rule that participation in these codes by the Dierks company would not constitute a violation of the State antitrust law, or the court's decree in the 1914 case.

BELGIUM MAY PAY U. S.

New Budget to Provide for Instalments.
Special to The Post-Dispatch.
BRUSSELS, July 20.—The Belgian Government today indicated its intention of resuming war-debt payments to the United States next June. Belgium defaulted on the June 15 debt installment to the United States.

Prime Minister de Broqueville told the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon that the 1934 budget must take into consideration supplementary credits for foreign debt payments to America. "I hope the United States will soon offer to negotiate a new settlement," he added.

BRITAIN SEEKS ABROGATION OF GOLD CLAUSE IN BONDS

Requests Persons in U. S. Who Hold 1917 War Issue to Exchange Securities at High Dollar Rate.

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, July 20.—Great Britain has asked holders in the United States of the 1917 war loan bonds
to accept abrogation of their gold clause in order to permit conversion from 5 1/4 per cent to 2 1/2 per cent sterling bonds.

An offer was made to change
each $1000 bond into a sterling bond of £260—at the rate of $3.84
against the $4.86 parity, reached yesterday by the dollar and pound.

The bonds were floated in the United States just before America entered the World War in 1917. The bonds were in the form of one and two year gold notes converted at expiration into 20-year bonds bearing a payment clause reading, "In gold coin of the United States of America of the standard of weight and fineness existing Feb. 1, 1917, or in its City of London, England, in sterling money at the fixed rate of $4.86 to the pound."

Britain's Explanation.
The announcement of the invitation to conversion contained the following explanation:
"Recent legislation in the United States has provided that any obligation expressed in gold or in the coin or currency of the United States shall be discharged upon payment dollar for dollar in any
coin or currency of the United States which at the time of payment is legal tender for public and private debts."

"It follows from the terms of the aforesaid legislation that payment
of interest and repayment of principal under the existing bonds, if made in New York, can only be made in currency or coin which is legal tender at the date of payment of the debt, that is, paper dollars and not in gold dollars."

"In the very special circumstances which surround this particular case, however, his majesty's Government propose to make an offer to holders of the bonds to surrender them in exchange for new bonds, the interest on which will be paid in sterling money, and to receive in exchange new sterling bonds which would be issued subject to the following terms and conditions. . . .
The exchange will be made on the basis that for every thousand dollars of five and one-half per cent

gold bonds the holder will receive £260 in sterling bonds."

In American quarters this comment concerning the offer was made:

"Great Britain is well within her rights in offering to exchange over-
at par, inasmuch as the gold bond is legally a paper bond in the United States now, although Britain asks a voluntary acceptance of the virtual abrogation of the gold clause. This is particularly interesting in view of the storm of protest
in Great Britain when the United States announced it was paying interest on its bonds in paper dollars."

"The offer probably will prove very attractive to some American holders, who thus will get an advantageous rate of exchange even
at a lower rate of interest at a time when even Washington intimates it does not know exactly what the dollar is going to do."

Reduction in Interest.
Holders of the $1000 bonds now are entitled to $55 annually in interest, but at 2 1/2 per cent on $280 they will get $7.00 annually. At yesterday's parity rate of exchange this is equivalent to $31.59, which is about 3.16 per cent interest.

If the dollar falls still further in value the rate of interest will increase.

Although the original issue was for $250,000,000, the final paragraph of the Government announcement stated that only $136,333,500 now
were outstanding.

"The effect of the proposed conversion offer to the extent to which it is accepted will be to increase the total amount of principal but to diminish the interest payments during the period which remains before maturity."

"The amount of 20-year bonds is $136,333,500—£28,013,733 at par. If all these bonds were converted into sterling bonds, the amount of the latter to be issued would be £58,- 446,710. At par, the interest payment on the 20-year bonds is equivalent to $1,540,755 yearly, while the charge for interest on the sterling
bonds would be £886,168 yearly."

GERMANY AND VATICAN SIGN CHURCH COMPACT

Von Papen Acts for Berlin
Government; Cardinal
Pacelli for Pope.

By The Associated Press.
VATICAN CITY, July 20.—A con-
cordat between Germany and the Vatican was signed today by Vice-Chancellor Franz von Papen of Germany and Cardinal Pacelli, Pope's Secretary of State.

Those present at the signing were Baron von Boers, chief of the German Cabinet; Under-Secretary of Interior Buttman of Germany;
Minister of the Holy See von Kie-lmeier; Mgr. Kaas, former German Center party leader; Mgr. Ottaviani, Papal Under-Secretary of State, and Mgr.
Pizzardo, Under-Secretary of the Congregation for Extraordinary Ecclesiastical Affairs.

It was disclosed that Mgr. Kaas had assisted in the negotiations resulting in the concordat. He has been living in Rome for several months.

ROXAS OUSTED AS SPEAKER OF THE PHILIPPINE HOUSE

Advocate of Outright Acceptance of Independence Act Is Removed.

By The Associated Press.
MANILA, P. I., July 20.—Independence debate was side tracked
by factional politics today as supporters of Manuel Quizon ousted Manuel Roxas, champion of outright acceptance of the independence act, as Speaker of the Philippines House of Representatives. All committee chairman of the House
also were removed preparatory to a complete reorganization
of that body by the Legislature.

Quizon submitted his resignation as President of the Senate as the second step of the legislative reorganization. He seemed inevitable
the Senate would follow the lead of the executive committee of the dominant Nationalista party which rejected his resignation as party president yesterday.
Decision was deferred when Quizon adjourned the Senate until tomorrow.

The Senate prepared to oust its Speaker President pro tem, Sergio Omensa, who was co-chairman
with Roxas of the independence mission which worked for adoption of the Hawes-Cutting act by Congress.

Reorganization of both Houses planned will leave Quizon virtual dictator of the Legislature.

Politicians forecast responsibility for the final decision on the act eventually will be left to a plebiscite or a convention.

RUSSIA SEEKING TO PURCHASE $1,000,000,000 OF U. S. GOODS

Negotiating Now for $100,000,000
Worth of Mine and Farm Products.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 20.—Russia is negotiating for the purchase of $100,000,000 of American farm and mine products and if adequate credit facilities can be obtained is contemplating the purchase of up to $1,000,000,000 worth of goods in this country.

Persons familiar with the negotiations said yesterday that Russia
wanted large quantities of cotton,
sugar and non-ferrous metals and would resume her formerly large purchases of farm and industrial machinery if conditions were suitable.

Talks between Russian trade representatives and officials of the United States regarding the sales have taken place but are still in the most general stage. They have not reached any definite point except for the $50,000,000 cotton purchases financed by the Reconstruction Corporation, which lent the money to American exporters on guarantees by the Amtorg Corporation and the Soviet trading agency
in this country.

40,000 ATTEND FUNERAL OF FLYERS IN LITHUANIA

State Services Held for Darius and Girenas Who Crashed on Trip From U. S.

By The Associated Press.
KAUNAS, Lithuania, July 20.—
Forty thousand persons attended
the state funeral today of Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas, the Lithuanian-American aviators, who crashed Monday only 400 miles from Kaunas in a flight from New York.

Walking at the head of the funeral procession were the wife,
child, sister and father-in-law of Darius and the brother of Girenas.

Members of the Government and of the diplomatic corps were present at the funeral services. The belongings of the aviators and the remnants of their plane, the Lithuanians, are to be exhibited to the public later.

DELEGATES LACKED UNITY OF PURPOSE

Hull Trying to Preserve Principles of Tariff Truce
—Group Action on Silver, Sugar, Coffee.

By CHARLES G. BOSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of The Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 20.—It is now abundantly clear that the World Economic Conference was fore-doomed to failure or to only negative results from the moment President Roosevelt determined upon our current experiment in economic nationalism. The handwriting could be seen upon the wall when Raymond Moley made a radio
speech in May indicating the administration's first concern was
with domestic measures and warning the public not to expect too much of the world conference. This deliberate writing down of the conference in advance was one of the factors contributing to our delegation's lack of authority at London.

Moley's performance was doubly remarkable in view of the fact he was technically subordinate to the leader of our delegation.

The wonder is not that the conference has failed to get hoped-for results, but that national feelings
have not been more greatly exacerbated. As already noted, Chairman Hull is credited here with a large share in the successful effort to prevent a breakdown on a topic near to discord after Roosevelt's July 3 message.

Curiously Assorted Lot.
Nevertheless, the United States sent to an official international gathering a more curiously assorted lot of delegates than those representing us at London. Hull as Secretary of State, was perhaps the logical choice to head the delegation,
although practically all his governmental experience had been on the legislative side. That he has been able to salvage a semblance of good will for America from the wreckage
of the conference, despite handicaps inherent in the whole London
situation and in his own training,
is a tribute to his tact and open-mindedness.

Hull's task might have been less difficult if he had been allowed a larger voice in selecting his associates. He had very little if anything to do with naming them. The delegation was composed of Senator Pittman, chief of the Senate Finance Committee, and a group of practically only concern is with silver; former Gov. James M. Cox; Ralph Morrison, Texas banker and cattle man; Congressman McReynolds and Senator Couzens, an able man but not given to doing teamwork.

Merely to call the roll of the delegates is to indicate how lacking
they were in unity of purpose.
They achieved some unity after two or three weeks, but at the start their working along individualistic lines, for all the world as if they had been a group of Senators
at home, was a source of weakness and brought scathing comment
from observers.

For some of the delegation the trip to London was no more than a jovial. But for this fact they can hardly be blamed. Conditions which brought about the collapse of the conference were not of their making and no set of delegates, no matter how wise or how adroit, could have done much better.

LORD BURNHAM DIES SUDDENLY IN LONDON

Newspaper Proprietor, Long Owner of the Daily Telegraph, Succumbs at 71.

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, July 20.—Harry Lawson Webster Lawson, Viscount Burnham, newspaper proprietor and editor died suddenly today at his home here. He was active in business as recently as Tuesday, when he attended a meeting of the Joint Select Committee on Indian Constitution Reform, of which he was a member. He was 71 years old.

The Viscount was prominent for many years. He was best known for his association over a long period with the Daily Telegraph. He virtually grew up in the Daily Tel-graph office under his father, the first Lord Burnham, who died in 1916, but a few years ago he sold the newspaper.

In 1921-22 he was president of the International Labor Conference at Geneva, and again in 1928. He was president of the Public Health Conference at Bordeaux, France
in 1924 and at Ghent in 1927.

death yesterday, six were sentenced to life imprisonment and 10 were

PRODUCER NATIONS REJECT OFFER TO BUY MORE WHEAT

Importing Countries' Proposals Too Indefinite to Fit With Plan to Cut Acreage, They Say.

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, July 20.—Representatives of the big wheat producing and exporting countries rejected today an offer by the buying countries to take more wheat. The offer was deemed too indefinite.

Two complementary proposals
are up for consideration to increase the price of wheat—one, advanced
by some of the producers, is to restrict acreages and so production;
the other, proposed by the importing countries, is to increase the consumption of wheat. The producers, however, think this second proposal, in present form, is not sufficient to fit in with their acreage reduction program.

"They have got to do more than that," said a spokesman of one of the "Big Four" countries—the United States, Canada, Argentina,
and Australia—whose delegates
have been seeking ways to increase wheat prices.

"The offer is in much too general terms and leaves too much to be taken for granted," he asserted.

In various speeches at a meeting
this morning some of the importing countries were described as probably able to make more specific suggestions for encouraging
the use of wheat.

A small subcommittee of importing and exporting countries was appointed to meet this afternoon
to determine whether a compromise could be effected.

Negotiations to Continue.
Representatives of wheat importing countries of Europe yesterday pledged themselves to increase imports as a measure of co-operation in the attempt to regulate world production and improve prices.

The promise was contained in a draft recommendation which the importers, chiefly France, Germany, Italy and the Netherlands, had submitted.

Hugh Macleod Writes Again.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I AM writing again to show my gratefulness and to express my deep sense of appreciation for your efforts in my behalf, and especially to thank you for the publication of my recent letter to you and also your editorial of recent date, in which you expressed the thought that I should receive prompt executive clemency. There is nothing I can add to or subtract from your sentiments, but what I am desirous of accomplishing is some means or method whereby concerted action can be taken and my case presented to the President for his consideration. I would be thankful to you if you would offer me any suggestion along this line. Needless to say that I cannot get concerted action on the matter; single-handed efforts would be of no avail.

It might interest you to know that I received letters of sympathy from various sections of the country expressing disapproval of my predicament. Is it not reasonable to suppose that I would be of far more service to my wife and two children (the youngest born recently), than wasting my time in Leavenworth penitentiary? My freedom would mean much to my family and just as much to society. It would give me an opportunity to raise and educate my children so that they could get a proper start in life and fit them for society.

The Government certainly would reap the dividends later, and I see no reason why they persist in my incarceration merely because I refused to be parted from my family. What is of interest to me, and presumably to others that I have written me, is why it is necessary to keep me incarcerated. In order to make me a better citizen? Is it presumed that by denying my wife and children my protection and support, and by subjecting them to undue suffering through my absence, justice will be met?

The Government's charge against me is a technical violation of the immigration law. This merely a man-made law, not God's, and so long as laws are made and unmade by man, so long will they not be infallible.

Well, I think I have dwelt long enough on this subject. I must now draw to a conclusion, but before doing so I again take the opportunity of thanking you for the publicity you have given my case and for the valuable space you have donated to my cause in your newspaper, especially your kind editorial—space that money cannot purchase. In closing, I may add that whatever success I may have in securing my release from the penitentiary will be through the efforts of your valuable newspaper.

Leavenworth, Kan.

Ascribes Crime to Predatory Interests.

THE blame for the shameful lawlessness of the United States lies nowhere but at the door of the great predatory interests which have maintained and now maintain corrupt political parties in our cities and states. These parties are in league with and give aid and comfort to the world in return for control of elections, thus assuring the great and respected rackets permission to exploit and extort, and in their greed and stupidity they know no limit editorial—space that money cannot purchase. In closing, I may add that whatever success I may have in securing my release from the penitentiary will be through the efforts of your valuable newspaper.

Leavenworth, Kan.

Racketeers Fear Canadian Justice.

WITH repeal of the eighteenth amendment almost in sight, the racketeering gangs are looking for other means of income and have turned to kidnapping to supply their need for money. There is not a state in the Union but should blush with shame at the feeble and clumsy efforts to suppress this form of crime.

There has been a lot of discussion in the past about the different state functions being undertaken by the Federal Government, but when we look back and see how some state governments have functioned, the Federal Government cannot be blamed for taking action. The Federal Government is about to take the field against all forms of racketeering, and there is no reason why, with the right kind of leadership and personnel in the field, a record equal to or better than that of the Northwest Mounted Police cannot be made.

When a racketeer from the United States crosses the border into Canada, he immediately becomes a little gentleman. The reason is not hard to find. He fears Canadian justice. A little of that kind of justice on this side of the border would put the fear of God into the heart of the ungodly racketeer.

If the racketeer will not work, put him in a Federal prison colony and make him earn his keep.

ART.

WHICH WAY?

It is now five months since the Roosevelt administration took charge of the national Government, and the country has had an opportunity pretty fairly to judge the disposition of the New Deal.

There are two developments of the greatest possible importance. First, the President has proved far more liberal in his sentiments than he was supposed to be. In fact, the immensity of his task and the contacts which have resulted from his efforts to master it have moved him almost every day farther to the left. That he has broken with all that conservatism which has been dominant in the national councils since the World War can no longer be doubted. The New Republic, which has been skeptical, says he has proved himself a sincere liberal. One of the best proofs of this is the type of adviser by which he is surrounded. One of the Washington correspondents says he has never seen so many able and well-meaning people in key positions as there are at Washington today.

The second significant development is the awareness of privilege and power to the implications of the New Deal. It is a commonplace in American politics to prattle about deals, fair, square and new. It is unheard of that any such thing should become reality. In Wall Street, where privilege and conservatism have their lair, it was bruited about during the campaign that there was no danger in Mr. Roosevelt, that his record as Governor proved it. What seems to have happened is that entering a larger sphere gave the President a clearer conception of the necessities of a nation which needed liberal leadership. It is said now that the people whose selfish interests are inimical to the public welfare have joined solidly in opposition to any more new dealing.

This is the real difficulty with industrial control. Industrial control advances the postulate that wealth should be more equitably distributed in the nation; that there shall be no more child labor; that there shall be no more starvation wages; that there shall be an end to ill-gotten gains. This is something of a sockdolager to a country which has never known any bridge upon license; which has looked for its potentes among the unconscionable; which has averted its gaze from the villainous practices of all those who found fortune in cheating; which has always maintained a double standard of morals, by which to loot a railroad was one thing and to steal a spare tire was something else. The special session of Congress gave only a suggestion of what the New Deal proposes to do with all such sundry; but it was a suggestion that struck dismay and disquiet into the dark corners of Wall Street. We will hear more about plans for the future when the next Congress meets: more about an income tax for everybody; more about honesty being the best policy; more about making America a fit place in which to live; more about predatory wealth and how it is gained; more about protecting the savings of the people; more about the rights of the many as opposed to the artifices of the few.

As eminent a critic of American life as Harold J. Laski thinks the odds are against the New Deal. His idea is that wealth and privilege are too deeply entrenched in America to be uprooted by a few well-meaning liberals. We are not so sure that this is the case. The United States is an experiment. It has been so characterized by every great foreign onlooker since Lord Bryce. No other nation has invited the people of all lands to join in such an experiment as ours. Is it therefore likely that what is to happen in the United States is indicated by anything else that has happened in history? We are inclined to think not. What other people have ever shown greater capacity for self-government than our own people are now displaying in the matter of prohibition? What other people ever went to the polls in a more peaceful revolution than that which turned the old government out and put the new government in? H. N. Brailsford, who was for years an editorial writer on the Manchester Guardian, says we are engaged in the stupendous task of cleaning up the United States; that we are to determine whether we shall rule or be ruled; whether the lot of the average man or the fortune of the selfish individual is to be the great desideratum.

Truly, this is the case. There is not a day but brings confirmation of it from Washington. There is scarcely a man or woman in the country who has not sensed the stirring of a new American philosophy in the day's news. We have not the slightest idea what the outcome is to be. We do know that the means we are employing are all we have. If they do not serve us, if greed and privilege are to emerge the victors in the end, then democracy is a failure and the finest of all political promises will have perished.

Which way?

FELIX E. GUNN.

"Keeper of the Deficit" they called him at City Hall. This was no title of derision, but of friendly approbation. Felix E. Gunn, Deputy Comptroller for a quarter of a century and a city fiscal employee for 32 years, who died yesterday, not only "kept" the deficit in lean times but watched municipal expenditures with keen eye at all times. He had the knack of saying "no" to officials seeking money without making them angry. As a youth, he had special tutoring in mathematics, an education which was helpful throughout his long and useful career. Major thanks for the city's excellent credit go to Mr. Gunn. A Democrat, most of his service has been in Republican administrations—a tribute to his ability and honesty. Louis Nolte, Republican, Comptroller for the last 16 years, summed the virtues of his chief aid in these words: "The financial condition of St. Louis is largely due to the intelligent and loyal service Mr. Gunn gave the city. The city loses its most valuable employee."

POSTMASTERS UNDER CIVIL SERVICE.

While Mr. Roosevelt's action in ordering all postmasterhips placed on a civil service basis should improve the quality of public servants in the Post Office Department, yet the terms of the order do not reach the high standard set by President Wilson. Examinations will be held, it is true, but the appointment will not go automatically to the candidate with the best rating. The choice will lie among the three highest, as is the present practice regarding fourth-class postmasters, with the final decision depending on the endorsement of the Postmaster-General, who is customarily guided by a Congressman or Senator from the candidate's district. Thus, political considerations will enter, and the best man will not always get the appointment. Wilson's order gave the appointment to the best-rated candidate, but his successor, Harding, revoked the rule, in order to give more play to patronage.

The provision for civil service examination undoubtedly will place better qualified persons in charge of the 15,032 postoffices now subject to presidential appointment. It will prevent appointment of the obviously unfit, should political obligations bring the temptation to put such persons in office. But the New Deal should not lag behind the New Freedom in its appointment policies. Using civil service ratings as the final and not as a preliminary requirement would pay large returns in the efficiency and economy with which these offices are conducted.

MR. HAUGEN OF IOWA.

Former Congressman Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa, who has just died, was a fine public character. He served his district in Congress for 34 years, a record for continuous service, and was beaten only last fall when as it is said, even Abraham Lincoln could not have been elected. Mr. Haugen was always faithful to his constituents and, in a larger way, to the West. Since, during his entire political life, the industrial East held the upper hand in the national Government, he represented a fighting minority, determined to bring about greater consideration for the agricultural West.

To this end, Mr. Haugen, as chairman of the House Agricultural Committee, fought in season and out of season for legislation designed to take the peonage into which American farmers have been descending. His own efforts time and again were frustrated. When, in the second Coolidge administration, the McNary-Haugen farm bill was passed by both houses of Congress, Mr. Haugen's career seemed about to be crowned with success. That bill, however, despite the fact that it commanded the almost unanimous support of farm leaders, was vetoed by Mr. Coolidge. Again it was passed by Congress, only to meet once more the Coolidgean stone wall.

A Republican, Mr. Haugen lived to see a Democratic administration undertake the most sweeping and fundamental program for farm relief ever launched. Throughout the decade 1920-30, when all other industry was booming, Mr. Haugen watched farm prices and farm land values steadily descend. In the few months since Mr. Roosevelt has taken office, he saw a meteoric rise in farm prices, giving renewed hope to our agricultural population that the 13 lean years they have suffered may now be succeeded by fat ones. He saw the farm leaders themselves given power over agriculture with the means of balancing it with industry.

Mr. Haugen had the right to console himself that his many years of effort to get the country to understand the farmers' cause had not been in vain. As a man and as a legislator, he brought honor upon himself. Fortunately, he lived to see the country agree that it could not live half poor and half rich. His own State of Iowa, after more than a half century in a party out of which not even La Follette could lead it, was one of the leaders in the political revolt that brought in the New Deal.

AS TO THE BROWNS.

There is still point to the old jingle about St. Louis:

First in shoes, first in booze

And last in the American League.

We refer particularly to the deplorable state of the Browns, who are languishing in last place, with even the unspeakable Red Sox many points above them. William Killefer, manager for the last three years, has resigned and has been succeeded by Allan Sothoron. Under Killefer, the team has never finished higher than fifth, and apparently Magnate Philip de Catesby Ball is losing patience.

As a matter of fact, since the historic happenings of 1922, when the Browns failed by an eyelash to win the American League pennant, the club has been in the doldrums, while its neighbors, the Cardinals, ever since 1926 have been reaping pennants, glory and world series money. When the Browns play ball here, the fans stay away in droves and the stands at Sportsman's Park resemble the great, open spaces.

We would not indict Mr. Killefer for this lamentable state of affairs and, as for Mr. Ball, the way he stands for deficits is nothing short of heroic. In fact, we refuse to indict anyone, even the members of the team, who, according to competent sports authorities, are always doing their best. Besides, some of the members of the team, like the versatile Sammy West and the spinach-eating Oscar Melillo, are really super-stars.

We desire only to express a wish, namely, that next year the old adage will read:

HIGHWAYS NEEDED NEAR ST. LOUIS.

Missouri has been allotted $12,180,306 for highway construction by the new Public Works Administration. There are a number of road improvements in and near St. Louis which the State Highway Commission should consider carefully in laying out its program to spend the money. Half of the fund must go to routes in the Federal aid system, one-fourth to secondary roads and one-fourth to highway extensions through municipalities.

The proportionate share of St. Louis in the distribution is about $1,500,000. City officials are preparing a schedule of the best places to spend this. Outstanding in the vicinity of St. Louis among possible undertakings are: extension of route No. 21 from the Ozarks at De Soto into the city over Union and Morganford roads; construction of the superhighway of the scenic route along the south bank of the Missouri River to Hermann or Jefferson City; links to make a direct route to the Lake of the Ozarks; a connection for a new direct route to the middle Ozarks country, via No. 30 and Salem; construction of the road along the Mississippi to Louisiana, Mo.; paving of route No. 25 from Crystal City to Jackson, for a short cut to the South; completion of the outer belt highway from Barnhart to Weldon Springs, by way of Eureka.

Widenings which the State should carry out are particularly important. All the trunk highways should be doubled or tripled in width. It takes no prophet to foresee that automobiles are going to multiply. Then why not do now, when money is to be available, what must ultimately be done? If a lesser widening program is to be adopted, the following will help: the new No. 66 to the junction with No. 50 near Union; Manchester road to Grover; St. Charles road to St. Charles; Gravois road to House Springs; No. 61 to Crystal City; Lindbergh boulevard between Florissant and Sappington. St. Louis County should be encouraged to finish the fine supplementary road system laid out there. More viaducts separating grades at important highway intersections should be erected.

"Economic Nationalism"

THE failure of the London conference has created the impression that the world has become too nationalistic to make international agreements. The conclusion can easily be pressed so far as to be quite misleading. For, as we begin to see the events of the past few weeks in perspective and to appreciate their significance, we shall find, I think, that to ascribe the immediate outcome in London to "economic nationalism" is much too simple a diagnosis.

It must be assumed, of course, that nations will make international agreements only when they see in them a national benefit. The kind of internationalism which requires one people to make sacrifices solely for the benefit of another has never been practiced by any government, except, perhaps, incidentally and in relatively small matters. Internationalism, to be possible in the world we live in, must be an exchange or a pooling of advantages in which all the parties believe they will profit, either immediately or when they are wise in the long run.

Remembering this, have any reason to assume that, because the principal nations could not make agreements in June, 1933, they are never again going to find advantages in making them? The elemental conflicts which developed at London showed clearly, it seems to me, that the conference got nowhere primarily because it was called together at the worst possible moment imaginable.

The three chief parties were the British, the French and ourselves. When they met in London, what was their position at home? We were and are in the midst of a gigantic financial and economic movement which is only partially completed, and just what the state of affairs will be when it is completed, no one in the world knows. No one knows what will be the level of our prices and wages, of our agricultural and industrial costs, and, therefore, no one can at the moment estimate the meaning of a tariff arrangement or of a monetary plan. We could not negotiate internationally because our affairs were moving so rapidly that we did not dare to define our national purposes.

The position of France and the Continental gold countries was inherently no less unstable. These countries are clinging to the gold parties. But every informed statesman in Europe knows that the Continental gold crisis is still to come. It would be rash to prophecy as to whether these countries can stay with gold, but it is certain that the crucial test of their ability to do it has not yet been met. Opinions differ as to the outcome; they are unanimous in recognizing that not later than the autumn the French will have either to balance their very much unbalanced budget or leave the free gold standard. With such a crisis impending, France and the nations which follow her found themselves no more ready than we were to define a long-term international policy.

The position of Great Britain reflected all the uncertainties and conflicts of all the various schools of thought. As between the City of London and industrial Britain, as between British manufacturing interests and the raw material producers of Canada and the other dominions, there was and is as sharp a divergence of view as between, let us say, Secretary Hull and Senator Couzens. The net result was a deadlock in British policy, which means in practice that the British Government dare not commit itself to any positive policy.

The moral to be drawn, it seems to me, is that the moment for international agreements will not and cannot come until the evolution of domestic affairs in these three countries has run its course. When it has, as of course, it must, international monetary and trading arrangements will again seem necessary. Until the evolution is completed, any international proposal must fail because no one of the parties really knows where he is and what he wants.

To recognize all this is a very different matter from concluding that nations will never desire an international monetary system and a development of international trade. It is no doubt true that in all countries there is a strong tendency to seek economic and social security through measures of national sufficiency. But no matter how far this tendency is carried, it cannot be carried to a point where international relations are abolished. There will be buying and selling across the frontiers, and so the most nationalist states will be making international bargains.

That they were not able to strike bargains in June, 1933, is no proof whatever that they will not wish and need to strike them in the relatively near future.

Nebraska's Homing Mallard

From a Bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture.

A FEMALE mallard (No. 555414), that for each of the last six years has nested in a box on the roof of a barn in Nebraska, is back again this year, according to reports to the Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture.

This wild duck has set a record for escaping the guns of hunters and for returning to the same spot to nest every year. She reappears almost clock-like regularly for three years—arriving March 12, 1928; March 10, 1929, and March 11, 1930. In 1931, she came on April 9, and last year on Feb. 21. This year she returned to the old schedule, March 12.

This duck was banded Nov. 29, 1927, by F. J. Keller, on his game refuge at Antioch, Neb., and has returned each year and nested in the box on his barn roof. She usually raises two broods of ducklings. She is known to have reared more than 100 ducks.

Officials of the Biological Survey have advanced the suggestion that should Mallard No. 555414 finally fall before a duck-hunter, she be mounted and presented to Mr. Keller. Her original band, while still legible, shows the effect of the six years' wear, so Mr. Keller placed a new band on her other foot this spring. Now she carries two bands, and the number of the new one is A604109.

Convincing Proof

From the Pittsburgh Press.

CONVINCING proof that the sweat-shop is a curse to employer as well as employee was presented to the Gallagher Commission, as it completed its investigation of Pittsburgh sweat-shops.

The proof came from two sources whose ability to speak with authority is above question. One source was an alleged sweat-shop operator; the other was an officer of one of the largest manufacturing companies in the world. Both had been accused by employees of paying below-substantive wages. Both frankly admitted their wage scales were too low. And what is most amazing, both declared that the only way to better business was higher wages.

In other words, these two representatives of industry agreed that business improvement is possible only through increasing wages, as the Recovery Act provides. The alleged sweat-shop operator, M. J. Gerstl, president of the Elite Dress Co., a subsidiary of the gigantic Modon Co., a subsidiary of the gigantic Modon Co., had been charged with paying girl workers as little as 2 cents an hour. When questioned by the commission, he denied conducting a sweat-shop, but admitted that low prices for his merchandise made it impossible for the factory workers to earn a decent living.

"The only way sweat-shops can be corrected," he said, "is by the Recovery Act. A State minimum wage law won't save us. Our competition comes from outside the State. Only a national minimum wage measure could be effective."

The other witness was W. C. White, representing the Aluminum Cooking Kettle Co., a subsidiary of the gigantic Modon Co., a subsidiary of the gigantic Modon Co. He employed Aluminum Co. of America. His employees had testified to working for wages as low as 18 cents an hour in the company's New Kensington plant.

Mr. White declared that only apprentices receive such a low wage, but admitted that many workers get wages of 20, 21 and 22 cents an hour, with a few receiving higher scales. At this point in the hearing, Mrs. Pinchot, a member of the commission, intervened.

"Wouldn't there be better business if wages were higher throughout the country?" she asked.

And the Aluminum Co. official replied: "There certainly would."

Certainly, no greater proof can be offered to show that the Recovery Act is badly needed by both labor and industry. Labor leaders have long demanded higher wages as a means of stimulating mass buying power and restoring good times. President Roosevelt and administration officials have supported the theory. Today, it is one of the major purposes behind the Recovery Act.

And now two representatives of the very groups that are paying low wages have endorsed this belief. They, too, agree that a higher wage scale, such as the Recovery Act provides, is the only way out of the depression. That is the most convincing argument in behalf of this vital piece of legislation that we have yet heard.

WOE AMONG THE FARMERS.

From the Jefferson City Capital News.
BOO-HOO! Listen to our tale of woe! They have turned off—fired, if you please—several hundred agriculturists at Washington whose business it has been to write such illuminating pamphlets as "The Love Life of the Bull Frog." ## The DAILY WASH MERRY GO

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT

WASHINGTON, July 20. SOME of Roosevelt's close advisers have been urging him to stabilize the dollar. They say the alternatives are either that or sacrifice his recovery program.

The fact is that every day of stock market speculation makes it harder for Gen. Johnson to put across his fair trade codes for industry. Industry was really enthusiastic about NIRA, accepted it because it thought even state socialism was better than complete bankruptcy.

But now they see prosperity receding, and every day that they see this they are less anxious to submit to Government regulation of hours, wages, eventually prices and production.

What worries Johnson and Roosevelt is that the present business activity is based purely on speculation. The market is betting on the future. Present consumption doesn't justify present price increases.

One small business item last week was considered more important by the Roosevelt advisers than all the reports of increased steel activity. This was the A. and F. chain store report that during the five weeks ending July 1, sales were off 7.6 per cent compared with last year. In other words, people haven't got the money to buy the most essential of all commodities—groceries.

The remedy that is being urged on Roosevelt is to stabilize the dollar. As long as the world has before it Roosevelt's statement to the London conference that he doesn't care how low the dollar drops, the flight from the dollar is going to continue. As long as this continues, people will invest in commodities, the bull market will plunge ahead, and administration of the recovery act will be more difficult for Gen. Johnson.

So several people close to the throne predict that stabilization will come sooner than anyone in London ever dreamed.

Big Deal.
ALTHOUGH still in embryonic state and shrouded in deep secrecy, the Farm Relief Administration is working on a plan to sell $100,000,000 worth of American work products to Soviet Russia.

The U. S. R. has suffered from some years from a dearth of pork. The U. S. A. has suffered from a surplus.

Several questions are under consideration. One scheme calls for the creation of an export corporation by the packers. This agency would transact the deal with money it borrowed from the Treasury. The Treasury, in turn, would raise the money for the corporation's operations by a small processing tax on hogs.

Another plan is a straight-out barter proposition. The Soviets would turn over to the F. R. A. $40,000,000 of goods, such as grain, in exchange for an equal amount of hog products. The corporation

W. H. VANDERBILT'S FORMER WIFE REWEDS

Married to Writer After Divorce From Second Husband, Sigourney Thayer.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 20.—Mrs. Emily Davies Vanderbilt Thayer, divorced wife of William H. Vanderbilt and of Sigourney Thayer, theatrical producer, was married yesterday to Raoul Whitfield, 35-year-old writer.

The ceremony was performed in the bride's apartment by Judge Joseph E. Corrigan of the Court of General Sessions in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

Mrs. Thayer, the former Emily O'Neill Davies, was married to Vanderbilt in November, 1923, at Grace Church here. After failing in an attempt to obtain a divorce in Paris, Mrs. Vanderbilt received a decree at Newport, R. I., in 1923.

The following year Vanderbilt married Miss Anne G. Colby of West Orange, N. J. Shortly before this ceremony the former Mrs. Vanderbilt was married to Thayer. The Thayers were divorced in France about a year after their marriage, and Thayer later married Miss Mary Van Kenseleer Cogswell of New York.

LONDON PARLEY FACED FAILURE FROM THE START

high American circles today as trying to preserve the general principle of President Roosevelt's economic conference truce on tariff changes.

Strong opposition is said to have been encountered in British and European gold standard countries. American adherence is expected to be continued only with reservations for such advances in tariffs as may be necessary under the recovery and farm acts. The armistice was made effective July 13 to continue through the party.

Conference leaders are said authoritatively to have determined to keep a permanent conference body in London during the recess which begins July 27. This body, it is understood, will be a steering committee composed of Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, conference chairman; James M. Cox of Ohio and Premier Hendryk Colijn of Holland, as well as other officials of the principal commissions.

The plan is to have the Ambassadors at London represent these delegates on the committees who go home.

Central Bank Co-operation.
The monetary subcommittees have unanimously agreed a resolution on international indebtedness and will report that all countries save the United States, has accepted a resolution on central bank co-operation.

It is explained that the Federal Reserve Bank found consideration of this resolution to be "premature," but expressed willingness to co-operate at some future time if such action does not interfere with national policies.

Experts studying the coffee, tin and sugar situations, have issued a draft of reports outlining methods for continuing negotiations for a world organization to control the production and marketing of those products. The committee attached importance to early action and recommended that the Governments of Great Britain, Mexico, Japan, China, Australia, South Africa and the Belgian Congo should nominate representatives to negotiate a quota with an international tin committee.

Action on Silver Proposal.

A part of Senator Key Pittman's proposal for increasing the use of silver in subsidiary coinage and preventing further debasement of silver money has been approved by a sub-committee, but is finally dependent upon conclusion of an agreement between the chief producers and holders before April 1, 1934. The conference subcommittee adopted the Pittman proposal, thus taking another step toward its recommendation to world governments.

Senator Couzens, after attending his final conference meeting before sailing for New York tonight, said he was opposed to final acceptance of this resolution to be "premature," but expressed willingness to re-establish as the international measure of exchange values, the time and parity being for each country to determine.

He had not objected to the final report on the resolution in subcommittee because the rest of the American delegation approved, he said, and he was a "minority member."

Couzens told a London reporter: "We came over here with hopes for the conference higher than we realized. When we got here, we discovered a business revival in progress in several important countries. Well, countries like persons, are a little more concerned when they are on the upgrade. This made the nations a little more indifferent to the need for co-operation."

Chinese Shoots Two, Kills Self.
By the Associated Press.

HUTCHINSON, Kan., July 20.—Wing Mah, 24-year-old Chinese waiter, shot and seriously wounded two men, then killed himself, yesterday. He shot his cousin, Tommy Mah, owner of a cafe, downtown St. Louis, and wounded H. B. Shuler, State Grain Inspection Department employee, when Shuler was slow in obeying an order to get out of his automobile. Wing Mah wanted the car to escape in. Failing to start the car, the Chinese shot himself.

POLICE ARREST SUSPECTS AFTER TWO ROBBERIES

Cigar Store at Broadway and Pine.
One man identified as the robber
in a downtown holdup and two identified in a holdup on Kings-

soon after the robberies last night.
The first holdup occurred at 9:45
o'clock at the United Cigar Store
at Broadway and Pine street, where Houston Cooper, a clerk, was forced to the rear by an armed man who looted the cash register.
Cooper was giving a description of the robber to police when Peter Panos, 1122 1/2 Chestnut street, entered the store and said he had followed the holdup man to a pressing shop at 618 Chestnut street, where the holdup man had gone inside
and closed the door.
Suspect Captured.
Police went to that address and failing to get an answer to their knock, broke in the door. They found Peter J. McCann, 38-year-old ex-convict, changing his clothes. He was identified by Cooper and Panos
but made no statement.
McCann had $27.84 in his possession and bottles of bay rum and rubbing alcohol which Cooper said
were taken from the cigar store.
were found in the shop. Police also reported finding two loaded revolvers, one of which was identified as the property of Alex Meier, proprietor of the shop and McCann's employer.
Panos told police he entered the cigar store while McCann was looking the cash register. He said that his suspicions were aroused when the former convict, after selling
him a package of cigarettes, replied to his request for matches with, "Get out of here!" Panos said he waited outside until Mc-Cann left and followed him to the pressing shop.
Police records show that McCann
has served two workhouse sentences
for larceny, a penitentiary term
for attempted robbery and a sentence for an $11,000 bank robbery at Duplo, Ill., in 1922. He was released from the Chester, Ill., penitentiary last October.

LACLEDE CO. FAILS TO BAR TESTIMONY AS TO VALUATION

Service Board Overrules Objection but Will Allow
It to Offer Witnesses on Subject.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 20.—An effort by the Laclede Gas Light Co. to block the introduction of testimony on valuation by the city of St. Louis in the pending gas rate case was overruled today by Chairman Collet of the Public Service Commission, who permitted the city to continue with valuation testimony.

The objection, which had been expected, was on the ground that the company did not expect its rate-making valuation to be an issue in the proceedings and that it was not prepared to meet testimony on valuation. If such testimony were to be admitted, the company asked that the hearing be delayed for it to prepare a proper defense.

Delay Might Prevent Action.
In overruling the objection, Chairman Collet said that in any adjustment of rates such as the city is asking, the Commission would have to consider valuation since it would not be qualified to reduce rates unless it did. He told the company he would allow it time for valuation testimony as the case proceeded.

Details of the city's claim that the rate-making valuation, now on the books of the company at approximately $80,000,000, should not exceed $28,000,000, were developed today in the testimony of M. H. Doyle, an engineer for the city.

Reproduction New Figures.
Exhibits presented by Doyle place the valuation of that part of the property which the city says is now used and useful in the public service, at $28,014,014, on the theory of reproduction new, less depreciation. On the original cost, or investment theory, he places the value of the same property at $28,388,771. Both include allowances for intangible elements, and from the two estimates the city contends the fair valuation for rate-making should not exceed $28,000,000.

The reductions by the city are based largely on elimination from the rate base of a considerable part of the present physical equipment of the Laclede Co., because it now is purchasing from other sources 65 per cent of the gas it sells, instead of manufacturing all of it, as it did formerly. The estimates also give sharp effect to lowered prices, since the last valuation. The exhibits do not establish a percentage figure for the drop of prices in the utility field.

In the valuation structures under the two recognized theories, Doyle does not assign the company a specific allowance for "going value," contending there was an excess of about $4,000,000 in his other items, due to the type and condition of the property retained in his inventory, which would take care of going value. He justified this method by saying that in assembling his valuation items, he had considered the property as a going plant, with business attached, and earning money.

The company is likely strenuously to oppose the theory on going value, which the city says is based on a recent United States Supreme Court decision in a Los Angeles case. The commission allowed the Laclede company $5,800,000 for going value in a former valuation.

Dr. G. B. Cox, professor of finance and banking in the University of Chicago, testified for the company yesterday afternoon that price levels were rising, under the Government's program of inflation. His testimony was similar to that given for the company earlier in the week by Dr. C. E. McGuire, economist of Washington.

Testifies Prices Are Rising.
Dr. Cox testified that prices were rising in the general commodity field. He estimated that if the trend continued, it would be about a year before prices returned to the level of 1928. He declined, under questioning by the city's attorneys and members of the commission, to make any definite estimate on the period for which the rise would continue. He indicated a slump might be expected within three or four years.

He restricted his testimony to the general field of commodities, and, on cross-examination, said he was not prepared to make any estimates on the trend of prices for a utility, such as the Laclede Co. Under questioning by Commissioner English, he said he thought governmental action could not permanently affect the operation of the law of supply and demand.

COUNTY MAN ENDS LIFE

Theodore Bamberger, retired cotton sampler, was found dead about 5 a. m. today near the Frisco railroad tracks at Schmitt road, Oakland, a bullet wound in the right temple and a pistol beside him.

Bamberger, 63 years old, had not returned to his home at 520 Scott avenue last night after he left to take his dog for a walk. His son, Joseph, said he had been despondent and in poor health. He had been retired about 10 years. He is survived also by his widow, Mrs. Victoria Bamberger. The body was taken to the Bopp undertaking establishment in Kirkwood.

FOUND DEAD IN VACANT FLAT

Frank C. Resatko, 55-year-old laborer, who attempted to end his life May 31 in a suicide pact with his wife, was found dead yesterday in an unoccupied flat at 1114 John avenue, in which the owner had permitted him to stay recently. The body was discovered by a prospective tenant, who tried to get into the flat. Cause of death was undetermined. Neighbors said they had last seen Resatko last Sunday.

Resatko and his wife were found unconscious in their gas-filled room at 903 Bremen avenue, and Mrs. Resatko died, despite use of an inhalator. Resatko was revived. Letters found in the room with them accused a former employer of Mrs. Resatko as the one who "took away the means of living."

Tomorrow A NEW SUPERFUEL★ BY STANDARD OIL

Driving conditions are changing—speed is the order of the day. Motors are changing—compressions go higher and higher to meet the demand for greater power. Standards are changing—never has the public been a shrewder judge of value than today. Refining methods are changing—during the past year we have spent millions of dollars in equipment to enable us to turn out a finer, purer, more accurately controlled product than ever before. . . . So tomorrow we offer you a new gasoline. It meets the specifications of many premium priced fuels. Yet it will cost no more than the old Standard Red Crown. Try it. We know you will find it worthy of the name Standard.

★IT WILL SELL AT THE PRICE OF REGULAR!

24 Ships Come, Flying.
Upset in Wall Street.
Repeal Seems Certain.
No Russian Anti-Semitism.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

At 12 minutes to four, as this is written, Gen. Balbo with his 24 seaplanes comes roaring down the Hudson River, past the giant sky-scrapers of Manhattan, to his landing place near the ocean's edge.

High among the clouds, stretching far up the river, you see the great airships in groups of three, flying in perfect formation. You know that those ships have flown from Italy to Chicago by a route longer than 6000 miles, have flown yesterday in a few hours from Chicago to New York and will soon fly back to Italy.

What a glory for Italy, what a tribute to the skill and discipline of her flyers. There is no other flying fleet to compare with it. Congratulations to Mussolini, Balbo and the great Italian nation.

If Gen. Balbo would take his 24 seaplanes on to Washington, fly around the War and Navy buildings, and let as many as can realize that it is possible to send a fleet of ships on a peaceful or hostile errand across the Atlantic to the United States NOW, he would do this country a favor.

We are still treating airships as "an auxiliary" of floating ships and marching soldiers, which is purest idiocy.

When it is possible to send 24 ships, each of which could carry explosive bombs and poisonous gas, in military formation, 6000 miles, with power to destroy inland cities at the end of the trip, what is the use of talking about any kind of war except war from the air?

Geese will remark that Gen. Balbo had to proceed cautiously. Of course, he did, in PEACE TIME.

But in war, instead of sending 24 planes, 1000 would be sent and if half or three-quarters of them were wrecked on the way, that would make no difference. There would be enough left. And no one counts the cost in money or life in war.

And no one could count the cost in life or indemnity to this country if a hostile air fleet should reach our shores and dividing, bombard our principal cities.

They could do that today.

Something happened to the alcohol stock in Wall Street yesterday, and that frightened the whole speculative list. Perhaps "distillers" dropped because somebody decided that the people would be intelligent enough to drink beer instead of whisky. Anyhow, there was a scare all along the line, wheat dropping off 10 cents, cotton, $2, other stocks weak.

The increasing wet vote, with so many states in line and others, wet, soon to be heard from, will evidently end prohibition as the law of the land.

The country will then return to the old problem of regulating the dispensing of whisky and other alcoholic poisons, which, as Thomas Jefferson said, could best be done by encouraging temperate use of beer and light wine.

The Zionist organization in America says 4000 German Jews have migrated to Palestine within the last three months, one-half self-supporting, the other half depending on the Jewish agency.

The plan is to have 250,000 Jews, mostly from Germany, settle in Palestine within a four-year period.

To carry out the project calls for a fund of $25,000,000. It appears, however, that even Palestine the number of immigrants is restricted and Palestine, unfortunately, is a country limited in its agricultural and commercial possibilities and opportunities.

A MONUMENT TO LABOR

Bearing quotations from a speech by Hitler this monument to Labor and the men who died in the German Socialist uprising is soon to be unveiled in Berlin. The monument, in the shape of a huge obelisk is being erected on Unter den Linden. The four statues at the base represent a miner, farmer, factory worker and a forester.

AN OLD CHINESE CUSTOM

San Francisco's Chinatown has many picturesque settings. The queerest of all is the drying of fish on the roofs. The Chinatown buildings are in the shadow of the modern skyscrapers.

Vernon Butler, a college sophomore of San Bernardino, in his home fashioned a diving bell made from the end of a hot water tank fitted with a length of garden hose and tire pump. His rewards for retrieving lost articles of value for the patrons of Lake Arrowhead will keep him in school the coming year.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:
BEING a foreigner and a stranger to some American customs I want to ask your opinion. But already I am in love with only the St. Louis American girls, who show, already, that she likes me also. But I can't talk very well—it embarrasses me to be in love so, without the means of saying it well; and also understanding all the little things she says to me. Sometimes she laughs because the pronunciation is not right and then again the conversation. What would you do about it? EUROPEAN.

Possibly you do not need much language to tell her you love her, but you should, of course, want to speak her tongue. That is easy; apply yourself—nightly if necessary—to the serious study of English. You will learn the American slang without studying it.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I KNOW that you have several times published the wedding anniversaries, but I did not clip it and now would like to have you tell me what the tenth is. If you can use them all again, I promise to keep them.

YOUNG HOUSEKEEPER.
Wedding Anniversaries—First year, paper; second, cotton; third, muslin; fourth, silk; fifth, wood; sixth, iron; seventh, copper; eighth, bronze; ninth, pottery; tenth, tin; eleventh, crystal; twelfth, china; thirteenth, silver; fourteenth, pearls; fifteenth, coral; sixteenth, sapphires; seventeenth, gold; eighteenth, emerald; nineteenth, diamond.

Nothing seems to be listed between tenth and fifteenth, twelfth and twentieth.

My dear Mrs. Carr:
HOW can I address Maurice Chevalier? And can you tell me who directed his last picture, "A Bedtime Story"?

PICTURE FAN.
Address Chevalier at the Paramount Studios, Hollywood, Cal. His picture, "A Bedtime Story," was directed by Norman Taurog.

My dear Mrs. Carr:
WE HAVE a swimming pool near and we want to give parties there this summer. It is a new pool, but most of the girls and boys know how to swim. Do you know any games or stunts we could try, just to keep things going? My sister's birthday is July 28. I would like to give a party and introduce some games. What shall we eat?

JOSIE H.
There are several water games you might play. One "Whoopee! It Up" is both simple and silly, but fun for that reason, of course. And another, "The Handicap," is equally simple and perhaps sillier. The first is played with hoops. Two or four are used, one for each team of contestants. They are placed in the water, and will not, of course, remain in position—but what of that? At the starting signal the first one of each team must swim toward the hoop, pull himself through it and go on to his goal, the next hoop, and return to touch off the other member of his team who goes through the same performance and the same hoop—the prize is for the one who does both the quickest and returns to his base. The teams take turns. The second performance is one in which a man puts on a woman's skirt over his bathing suit before he starts for the water. He swims to his goal with the skirt on and returns to touch off the next swimmer who must put the skirt on. There are two skirts and two swimmers. Those who make the changes quickest and return to starting point win the game.

Hot dogs, deviled eggs, etc., and drink are enough.

My dear Mrs. Carr:
I AM a girl 15 years old and have enjoyed reading your column, and have learned many things from it.

I am on my vacation and at a loss to find anything to do. There are no children around that I can play with. Please don't suggest belonging to a club.

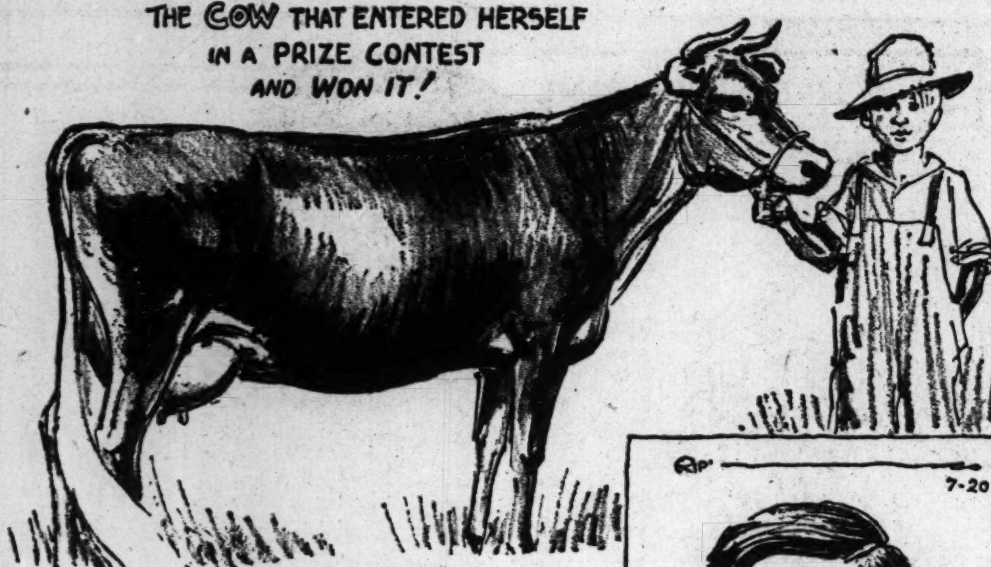

HERE'S HOPING.

But there are loads of things for you to do. This depends upon your natural tastes and inclinations. Summer is a grand time to learn how to do the things you haven't time for in the winter, because of your school work. If you are very active, there is the bicycle, newly revived, good exercise, and the very latest form of locomotion outside of roller skates. Athletics ought to occupy a good part of your day; swimming, tennis, hiking. And there are lots of things to make—learn to knit, you are not a bit too young to start and finish a sweater to occupy your hands. Knit a cap to school in the Fall. Knit a cap to go with it—surprise the crowd. Hop down town and buy your materials and they will teach you. There are simply fascinating quilt designs now. Why not start a quilt? You'll finish it some day. Girls are knitting pocket-books, bags and scarfs. And all women should know how to "sew a fine seam." In the afternoons when you can not get out and step into the sun, try some interesting and funning about something to do, get out your sewing or knitting—learn how to make things. Take some lessons regularly if you can—music, drawing, carving, working in plaster, anything that will be of some future use.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

The clipper ship "James Baines" was constructed in America by Donald McKay for the Australian trade. Commanded by Captain McDonald, her log records on June 17, 1856, "ship going 21 knots with main sky sail set." This is the highest rate of speed ever made by any sailing vessel.

SMETANA
Bedrich Smetana, 1824-1884, of Bohemia, one of the greatest composers of the nineteenth century, became completely deaf in 1874. He was compelled to give up his position as conductor of the Bohemian Theater, but in spite of his incredible handicap, continued in the creation of operatic masterpieces. After he lost his hearing, he composed the world famous opera "Libusa" in 1881, in addition to "The Kiss" in 1876, "The Secret" in 1878, and a number of others.

Two Generations.

By THE REV. JOSEPH FORT NEWTON
A GOOD story is told of dear Robert Collyer, the member of the House of Representatives, showing his wisdom and humor. When John Haynes Holmes came to the Church of the Messiah in New York, the old man began to talk to him, and he was in his pew at every service.

No two men could be more unlike, but the old saint was loyal to the new prophet. After a while, when some of the older folks began to be ill at ease under the new teaching, one of them ventured to ask Collyer how he liked the new minister and the new gospel.

"Fine, fine," he said, "he is a bright young man, and he will do big things; we are very fortunate to get such a leader." Not satisfied with the reply, and feeling that there was something Collyer had not confessed, after a brief pause the questioner put the matter point-blank: "Honest, now, Doctor, don't those sermons make the snakes run up and down your back? Why not admit the fact?"

"Yes, they do," Collyer admitted, drawing out the answer, as if he hesitated. "But ten articles, specially selected by Doctor Newton as being the most outstanding so far published in this series, have been reprinted in an attractive booklet. This booklet will be sent without cost to interested readers. Requests should be addressed to Dr. Joseph Fort Newton, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

bert L. Abrams, son of Louis W. Abrams of New York, who has traveled extensively in Russia. He writes:

"Under Communism the Jews have their own Yiddish courts, schools and Jewish houses of culture." Full protection is given to the culture of the Jewish people.

"As regards their religion, that, like any other, is 'opium for the people' and must go. To aid in the creation of a purely atheistic state, the teaching of Hebrew is at present prohibited; but, as the crisis passes, the restriction will most likely be relaxed.

"Everything has been done under the creation of a Jewish state to give the Jew a square deal. They have even gone so far as to take away from the individual peasants to create Jewish collective farms, which continue to survive only because of the protection they receive from the present government."

Mr. Abrams finds that the old anti-Semitic feeling, "that curse of the Czar," still nestles in the stubborn bosoms of the old peasants and it seems that the Communist government is the only fence between Jews and pogroms. That is a high and powerful force. Mr. Abrams writes further: "The younger generation—brought up under an enlightened government—knows not the difference in religion, and cares little for the difference in race. Inter-marriage is very common and is in fact increasing, and the Yiddish language and Jewish culture are slowly dying. The young generation of Jews is doing everything it can to aid in assimilation—or, rather, to smooth out the differences between them and their compatriots. This is partly in the spirit of Communism, but mostly, I think, because they are not particularly proud of their Jewishness." "In Odessa, I asked a Jewish young Communist what was the

All's Well That Ends Well

THE following hand, played in a pair contest, interested me as an example of how fine players can sometimes overcome an unfortunate bidding result when they have something to work with, and the cards are not too unkind. The point I want to stress is the fine play deduced and effected by South; so please remember this part of it and forget how he stole a top score by a very lucky first-hand phsyche opening bid.

South bid a club—a phsyche opening bid presumably based on the fact that there are two opponents to trap and only one partner. North bid a spade; two clubs by South; three spades by North, who cannot as yet read the phsyche, and to whom the only question is whether six or seven odd can be made; three no trumps by South, who now realizes that he has trapped only his partner and does not know how to nullify the consequences, but feels that spades must be the worst contract; six no trumps by North.

With Normal Bidding.
Had South passed originally, a slam would not necessarily have been reached, as South must keep rebidding clubs in spite of very strong spade and no-trump action by North. Several pairs did nevertheless reach a slam, but always in clubs. It is easily made in clubs, but, of course, the score is much less than in no trumps, as regards both trick score and honors.

The Play.
West opened the nine of hearts. Declarer put up the ace and ran the six club tricks, on which West discarded two diamonds, a heart, a spade. Declarer knew that West's original bid was for a spade slam, but he held a diamond holding, otherwise he would have led a touching honor. Plainly, therefore, he held a diamond holding from which he was afraid to lead away. However, only West had as yet discarded a spade, so it was plain that this suit would not break. Since the ace of hearts had been knocked out, South could not concede one spade trick and claim the balance. Nevertheless, he made his slam by playing four rounds of spades from the top. On the fourth round, West was in with the jack and found himself inescapably ended. He had only diamonds to lead, and so the declarer made both top and queen of diamonds. With six club tricks, three spades and a heart trick, this made up the 12 tricks of the contract. As you see, West could not keep an out in hearts without giving up his jack of spades or blanking his king of diamonds. This is a fine example of a combined squeeze and end play by which South offset the terribly damaging heart lead. Against any other lead he would have had no problem. After the ten of spades dropped on the second lead, he could concede a spade and claim the rest. At the same time, the heart lead was a warning of the vital inference that West could not risk opening anything else.

First and Second Hand Psychics.
Opening the bidding with a phsyche as dealer or second hand is not an example to be followed. It is an extreme tournament maneuver employed usually by pairs who are doing badly and cannot afford to play for average par score. Play my system carefully and guarding the jack of spades or blanking his king of diamonds. SCRAMBLED EGGS.
THEY say Joseph Hergesheimer's grouch against Palm Beach (how he has panned it in the mags lately!) was the result of the biggest party that was flung for him there. Just as he was dashing a group of deba with fine talk, Count Von Luckner took the whole group away by coming up and tearing a telephone book in half with his bare paws!

Somewhat discouraged, the precious Hergie strolled to the remaining girl in the party, who finally ascertained that he was a writer which she promised to introduce him to a real author—and brought up Arthur Somers Roche! Hergesheimer packed that same night.

Mencken, than whom there is no more graphic descriptionist, recently gave the most vivid and accurate description of British cooking. He said that the British were the only people in the world who could cook roast beef—until it was blue!

I heard Jimmy Durante really pulled this one at lunch here the other noon: "The penalty of fame" lamented Jimmy, "oh, the expense of it! I went into a drug store to get me a couple ten cent cigars and the clerk looks at me and says: 'Hello, Jimmie.'"

"Hello," I says, gimme 't'ree good cigars fer half a dollar!"

What few people know is that Ruth Bryan Owen, Minister to Denmark, and the daughter of the Great Commoner, is an accordion player to compare with Phil Baker, and so is her extremely beautiful daughter, Kitty Bryan Meeker. They own a half dozen of these wind machines.

The next time you hear one of the smart alecks poke fun at the movie men for changing the titles of stories bought for the screen remind him that "Alice in Wonderland" was first published as "Alice's Adventures Underground"; that Thackeray's title for "Vanity Fair" was "Pencil Sketches of English Society," and that Stevenson called it "The Sea Cook," not "Treasure Island." Also—"Pride and Prejudice" was called "First Impressions" by its author and that "Pigs Is Pigs" was first known as "The Dago Pig Episode."

Scallions to the Musicians' Union, which refused to allow Jules Lande's St. Regis Orchestra to play gratis for the Actors' Dinner Club reopening, although all the members were anxious to donate their services. The only concession the Union's spokesmen would make was to permit Lande to appear as a soloist—with an accompanying pianist. The Dinner Club is one of the worthier branches for the relief of hungry actors, who can't afford good meals. The Musicians' Union never has to worry about meals—their $2 weekly from each working member goes into a fund to feed their distressed men and women.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Friday, July 21.

VOID unnecessary expense and extravagance for at least five more days. Today: somewhat favorable for controlled expansion till early evening. Then step wisely around upsets of your own balance or that of others. Ad lib a bit.

We Want Peace.

We were discussing selfishness here a few days ago and then we had a fable. Individuals are not the only violators of The Law who suffer from their own grabby dispositions. Nations, too, have had habits along this line. Every time they get together it is for the purpose of seeing how much they can carry away from the conference for their constituents. We even see the same tendency inside a single nation where one section is perfectly willing to impoverish another section of the same country if they think they can get away with it. France, China, States, nations—all try to profit at the others' expense and then become insulted if they are accused of not being peaceful. Sure, we want peace; just give us all we ask for and we won't complain a bit.

Your Year Ahead.

Watch out for extravagance and exaggeration in general during the year ahead, if this is your birthday. Apt to be quick on the mental trigger, so count first. Better slow than losing friends. Changed due in several departments: in your love affairs, in home and with parents, and in connection with what you have saved or own. Danger: Dec. 17-26, 1933; April 17-26, 1934.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE.
THERE were moments during those last hours in New York when Janice actually did not know what she was doing. She was so unhappy. She walked for miles, crossing against the traffic, unconscious of the fact that several times she narrowly escaped being struck. If she had been conscious of it she would have told herself she didn't care.

Why live when everything you wanted was in your hand and you couldn't accept it? What would ever make up to her for the fact that she could not have love? Just to know you had done the right thing, been fair and generous to everyone concerned except yourself, was cold comfort.

All she had to do was say "yes" or perhaps not say "no," and Richard was hers. But she couldn't say it. Would never say it while his wife lived. And for this sacrifice Nipa wouldn't even be grateful. Would be no kinder to the husband whom, with distorted fancy, Janice now saw as definitely abused.

Long ago she had lost sight of the fact that everything she had been telling herself was purely her own idea. That Richard might have given her an entirely different version of the story never entered her head. She dared not see him. Although she had not gone to bed until 4, she left the hotel at 6, determined not to return until train time. The porter promised to make her reservations. The train left at six.

She did not stop walking until exhaustion forced her into a restaurant where she ordered soup and a glass of milk. Some time later she found herself in a motion picture theater, staring with unseeing eyes at the rapidly shifting scenes.

Back at the hotel, tossing her clothes haphazardly into the bag she had packed so carefully when she came, she heard the telephone ring, but ignored it, staring at it with longing eyes.

At last in a frenzy of haste she had closed the page, put on her hat and telephoned for a boy. She was at the desk paying her bill when Richard entered. His smile was so unassuming that her heart sank.

"I've tried to telephone you all day," he said. "Where have you been hiding?"

Janice took her change and crushed a receipted bill down into her crowded pocketbook.

"What are you doing now? Going out or coming in?" he continued innocently.

"I'm leaving," she repeated.

Janice nodded and followed the boy with her baggage to a taxi. Richard strode beside her, swinging his cane. When she entered the taxicab, he climbed in after her, saying, "You are running away from me. But why?"

She stared at him dully. What was the use of trying to explain? "I can't talk about it," she stammered. Her heart contracted violently as if someone was squeezing it in an iron grasp.

"Please, Richard, don't try to argue about it."

"You mean you don't even care to hear about my plans?"

"I can't. There are others I have to consider, too. My mother and father."

"You mean they are financially dependent on you, Janice?"

"Not at all, but how do you think they'd feel?"

The taxi stopped and Richard paid the driver while Janice gave the number of her reservation to a red cap.

It was five minutes later before Richard had a chance to say, "I don't understand."

"You would if you knew them," she replied.

Still hoping Richard followed her to her train, she raised her hands pleading, "Darling, please don't leave me like this! Wait one more day. It's so unfair, Janice."

"I can't wait," she said.

"But you haven't even heard my side of it."

"It's better to go without talking about it," she answered sadly.

"Why is it?" he argued. "I confess I'm completely in the dark about the whole affair. Have I done or said anything to hurt you?"

"It's the situation, Richard—not you. We can't go on like this."

"Why should we?" he demanded. "We're adults, entitled to live on our own. Is there anything reprehensible about the fact that I want to marry you?"

"Don't say it, Richard, please! You have no right to say it."

"Perhaps not from your point of view. But I can't really feel the fact that I have others I happen to be responsible for should stand in my way. I cannot offer you many things I could have offered several years ago but I certainly can support you."

"Isn't that dear? Oh, Richard, please, don't try to discuss it with me. That's the reason—the only reason—I'm running away."

But she had no strength left for resistance when he took her in his arms. He held her so desperately, saying, "I can't believe I've found you only to lose you. I love you so much."

The train was starting as she tore herself from his embrace. One last glimpse remained to her: her lover, pale and desolate—

IN HOLLYWOOD WITH LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 18.

IN New York Primo Carnera, world's heavyweight champion, is being invited to sign on a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract. Carnera is wanted for "The Prize Fighter and the Lady," with Max Baer and Lupe Velez. The only fly in the ointment is that Baer is the hero in the picture and knocks out Carnera.

The psychology, Carnera's manager may feel, is bad for him. On the other hand, Carnera may believe the salary is sufficiently compensating for a film knockout. With a new haircut and the new name of Mimi, Miriam Jordan is being given one of the sexiest plays of the year. "Marie Galante," sensational novel by Jacques Duval which was originally slated for Clara Bow, will give the world a chance to see the new Miriam Jordan.

The whispered yarn that one of Ginger Rogers' best songs was cut out of "Gold-Diggers of 1933" may be responsible for her new contract with Twentieth Century. Today Radio, with whom she has a contract, consented to an agreement which she signed with Darryl Zanuck for two pictures a year. One of these "Broadway Through a Keyhole," the Walter Winchell number.

A line or two: London fell for Victor McLaglen in a big way. He is now writing his life story in one of the big dailies. Walter Huston and Jack Pearl were in the same show 20 years ago and Huston and his brother immediately paid Baron Munchausen a call and made him welcome to the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot. Here's news about a pioneer screen actor. Minor Watson is on the Columbia lot, playing a part in "Man's Castle." Sally Eilers, in spite of the fact that she is a divorcee from Hook Gibson, seems imminent, sends him daily wires, inquiring about his health.

Sharpshooters of Hollywood collected at random: Greta Garbo's favorite luncheon spot, Perino's Italian cafe on Wilshire, after day the Garbo, with coat collar pulled up, slips into the eatery unnoticed; Walter Lang, with William Powell in his hideout; Bill maintaining a most discreet silence about his matrimonial split with Carole Lombard; Hoot Gibson home from the hospital and being nursed by June Gale; the Betty Compson-Irving Weinberg romance as strong as it was two years ago; Betty and Irving turtle-doving at the Brown Derby; Bobbe Arast and Nick Stuart continue to console each other; sounds like a romance; they were stepping out again at the Coconut Grove; and colony club Marquise de Faleise, husband of Constance Bennett, due in Hollywood Aug. 28 with the film he shot in the British Indies: Vina Delmar eating chili beans with relish at Jack Raymond's Comedy Club; Edith Hallor, sister of Mrs. John Francis Dillon, Raymond's silent partner; Taliulah Bankhead and Peggy Fears Blumenthal sunning themselves at the garden of Allah Pool.

LISTEN, WORLD

by ELSIE ROBINSON

Why Doesn't the World Stop, Look and Listen?
(Copyright, 1933.)

EVERY day a mountain of mail, unhappy letters, most of them disappointed, resentful people, crying out against their loneliness. Railing against the indifference of the world. Wondering why they have such bad luck. Complaining "chance." Blame.

Blame everyone but themselves for their bad breaks. Hundreds of letters daily. Some typed, some written. Some on expensive bond, some on cheap pad paper. Each one telling a different story. Yet through them all runs one strange similarity.

NEARLY ALL THE WRITING IS SO FAINT THAT IT IS DIFFICULT TO READ. Faint writing—that may not seem a very important matter to you. It doesn't seem important to the writers. They may make a vague apology. "Please excuse the pencil; my pen isn't handy." "I guess it's hard to read this typing. I should have changed the ribbon, but I didn't want to take time."

Feeble apologies, which they really don't mean, for they don't care if their faint writing is hard to read. That's the other fellow's bad luck, and to them, only their own bad luck matters.

Nevertheless, if they but knew it, their writing tells the reason for their bad luck. For writing is more than a bunch of letters. It's a clew to character. You can nearly always find the reason for a man's story in the way he writes it.

Why aren't these unhappy people getting the breaks? Why can't they make the world stop, look and listen? That's why.

THEIR RECORD IS TOO FAINT! Not only the record of their dull pencils, their shabby typewriter ribbons—BUT THE RECORD OF THEIR OWN CHARACTERS.

Spilled Ink If ink has been spilled on the rug, first take up what you can with a clean sponge. Then use warm water, absorbing it with a sponge or blotter in rubbing away the stain. Don't delay this first-aid treatment.

The Coming MOVIES

Conducted by NIE

STARTING today at the Missouri "Melody Cruise" will tell, with music, the story of a playboy millionaire, Phil Harris, and his buddy, a sea-petted husband, the Duke, who sail from New York to California. To assure himself that Ruggles will protect him from the female sex and not allow him to get married, Harris writes a letter to Ruggles' wife describing her husband's indiscretions and instructing her to open the letter only if he, Harris, marries. He actually does fall in love. Ruggles' efforts to restrain his friend from marrying, and his plans to retrieve the letter from his wife provide the plot. Others in the cast include Greta Nissen, Helen Mack, June Brewster, Shirley Chambers, Florence Roberts and Marjorie Gateson.

THE old story of love at first sight is pretty well shattered in the story "When Strangers Marry" which headlines the double bill at the Grand Central starting today. The Silk Express is the second feature. In "When Strangers Marry" Jack Holt meets his future wife, Lillian Bond, in a Parisian night club. She demands that he be thrown out and slaps his face after he proposes an insulting toast to her. He retaliates by placing her over his knee and administering a good old-fashioned spanking. After some pugilistic preliminaries, they start chatting and finally wake up at the end of a week's celebration to discover, to their mutual amazement, that they are man and wife. "The Silk Express" is the other feature. In the cast are Neil Hamilton, Sheila Terry, Guy Kibbee, Arthur Byron, and Dudley Digges.

CONSTANCE BENNETT lends her enchanting charms to the "allurement of men who can provide the luxuries of life for her in "Bed of Roses" which comes to the Ambassador tomorrow. With Miss Bennett in the venture is Pert Kelton, comparative newcomer to the screen, who according to those who have seen the picture, will be a serious competitor for Mae West admirers. In the play Miss Bennett jumps overboard from a pleasure steamer en route to New Orleans. She is picked up by a cotton barge which Joel McCrea owns. Each admires the other's nerve, but she does not feel that McCrea can give her the things she wants. In New Orleans she contacts John Halliday, wealthy publisher. He gives her the luxuries which she is so determined to get, but in the end, she and Joel get together. On the stage Johnny Perkins headlines his own stage show.

MAKING another comeback, Bebe Daniels tomorrow will head the cast at the Fox in "Cocktail Hour." In this picture Miss Daniels portrays Cynthia Warren, a wealthy and famous young actress who takes her fun where she finds it and refuses to marry until she has tasted life. Her attempted love-freedom is a dismal failure, and she has to admit that the ancient conventions are right, after all. Sidney Blackmer is a handsome but black-hearted wooer and Randolph Scott is a faithful, long-waiting suitor, who has wanted to wed her and who constantly refutes her theories on the freedom of women, condones her single escapade, and in the end marries her. On the stage, "Varieties of 1933" will feature Ted Claire, Tom and Betty Wonder, Jack Randall and Co., Maxine Peterson and the 14 Ernestine Myers dancers.

LIONEL BARRYMORE and Miriam Hopkins are co-stars in "The Stranger's Return," which comes to Loew's State Theater Friday as a picturization of the currently popular Phil Strong novel of rural life, which follows his latest seller, "State Fair." As the 85-year-old patriarch of a farm founded and pioneered by his family, Barrymore is said to have one of the most interesting characterizations of his career. Miss Hopkins has the role of a girl who goes to her grandfather's farm and finds there the peace and contentment she couldn't get in the city. Franchot Tone, who has scored outstanding success in the cinema in "Gabriel Over the White House" and "Today We Live," heads the supporting cast in "The Stranger's Return" in the role of a college bred farmer with whom the city girl falls in love. The fact that he already has a devoted wife and baby son serves to dramatize a hopeless romantic situation. Stuart Erwin fills a featured spot as a knowledgeable farm hand who knows more than he appears to.

SEEN IN THE STORES

By SYLVIA

A WIDE-BRIMMED hat that looks more like autumn than it does like summer may be the very type of chapeau you need to end this season. And if brown should be the shade that becomes your wardrobe best, then get such a hat of brown taffeta. If it is stitched in diagonal squares from the top of the crown to the edge of the brim so much the better. Silt sections at the front and back of the crown seem to be for no other purpose than to provide an excuse for the addition of tailored bows.

The summer hostess who is searching for some light-hearted tailies to enliven her bridge party may be interested to know that she can discard dog decorations in favor of cats. Furthermore the cats are black and everyone knows they should be lucky. These felina pets are shown in the act of shuffling the cards so the tailies have the name of "Shuffle."

The most appropriate stuff for your table covering when a good old-fashioned beer party is in progress is brown burlap. Napkins, also, are available of this sturdy fabric. The burlap is given a festive appearance by fringed edges and cord of different colors inserted to create a border.

Checkerboard glassware is not red and black as you might think but a very elaborate combination of silver deposit on clear crystal-like glass. The deposit is applied in connecting squares so that the entire surface is a geometrical study. A very stunning lemonade set is among the items featured.

Judging by the number of new early autumn frocks that emphasize the surprise style, you'll be needing plenty of novelty clips.

You need to take only one fleeting glance at the lamp sketched to decide that a child will adore it. One of the china dogs supporting the standard and shade is white except for his nose, and the other one is black. The parchment shade has some white felt dogs chasing each other around the border.

They will be ornamental as well as useful to hold the V necklines in place. The importance of black satin among these new frocks brings a demand for colored jewel clips. Shops show a fascinating collection, and the smart woman will choose at least three to vary the monotony of every dress.

Even though you can't seem to figure out the means of taking a trip this summer, you might do a bit of pretending by purchasing one of those appealing little travel sewing kits. Personally, I think they're sort of nice to carry in a handbag. They have envelope cases

Black and White Crepe
WASHINGTON.—For traveling Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth wore a costume of black and white crepe with a high-length jacket. The neck is trimmed with a narrow organdie collar. Her hat is made with a white crocheted crown and a medium brim of black Milan straw.

If there is an alluring red charm at the bottom of your cocktail glass which you can't live without, then the implement you need to conquer it is a cocktail pick. The idea isn't new, of course, but some of the picks are. These are of steel and they have the most cunning heads to recommend them. Elephants, parrots, pheasants, dogs and almost all the other animals from the zoo are provided to amuse you.

The drawing or halter neck line which reached the heights of informality in tennis frocks and bathing suits has assumed a dignity. A suit seen in a St. Louis store has the drawing idea as the feature of its blouse. The blouse is of white satin; the skirt and jacket are black.

DO MEN HAVE A DEEPER AND ACCURATE APPRECIATION OF ART THAN WOMEN?

YES OR NO

COPYRIGHT 1933 JOHN DILLE CO.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from society above the rights of individuals.

I do not think so. Flanders Petrus, the Egyptologist, has shown that all civilization first built up a strong political state and, under this protection, art, literature, science and philosophy advanced steadily for several hundred years. The whole country then slowly declined from numerous causes, more obscure. My own belief is that prime cause of decline is not that moral and spiritual standards in themselves decay, but that the leading families who created them quit having children. Families of lower abilities who set weaker leaders gain control and lower standards of religion and social and political morals. You can-
